Debt Ceiling Hike Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sagging corporate profits and other economic woes have cut the government's tax take, administration spokesmen said Monday, as they asked Congress for $18 billion additional borrowing authority.

The Treasury's request for a debt ceiling increase to $395 billion—$2 billion more than had been expected as recently as last week—set off a round of Democratic criticism of President Nixon's handling of the economy.

The administration's reluctant but long anticipated request came on a day that saw these other developments:

—A decline in home-mortgage interest rates was reported for April, the first since 1968. But federal housing officials said it is too early to say whether this indicates a welcome new trend.

—The stock market continued its precipitous decline, setting new seven-year low marks.

—Democratic leaders in Senate and House joined in declaring that the economy has reached a crisis state because of rising unemployment coupled with continued inflation. They urged President Nixon to summon a National Conference on Inflation and Unemployment.

In connection with the administration request for a boost in debt ceiling, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, asked Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy whether his economic projections are not still too optimistic.

Noting that the Treasury had overestimated corporate profits for 1969, Mills asked "Wouldn't it be safer to assume the $89 billion level of corporate profits you now project will be attained in 1970?"

Mills questioned also a prediction of $800 billion personal income—"if we are to realize such a level, there would have to be either a general upturn immediately, or a great increase in inflation by the end of the year."

Kennedy and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo, however, insisted the requested budget ceiling would take care of contingencies. It is based on an assumption the government should always have $6 billion cash on hand—rather than $4 billion as in the past—and an extra $3 billion reserve.

The public debt varies widely during the year as tax collecting and spending peak at different times.

Kennedy said rumors that the administration will go to Congress with new tax proposals should be put to rest. There are about $4.8 billion worth of revenue measures now pending, he said, and no more recommendations are expected this year.

But he said that if another large deficit threatens in fiscal year 1972—beginning July 1, 1971—"there could be a strong recommendation for increased revenues."

Interest rates on conventional home mortgages declined last month for the first time since November 1968. But Chairman Preston Martin of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said the minor drop isn't enough to indicate a trend.

The board said Monday the average effective rate on mortgages signed in April was 8.40 per cent, down from 8.47 per cent in March and 8.41 per cent in February.

The drop arrested 17 consecutive monthly increases, which began after rates dropped to 7.21 per cent in November 1968 from 7.23 per cent in October.

"While this decrease is highly encouraging it is too early to indicate a trend, or turning point," said Martin, who was nominated Monday by President Nixon for a full four-year term as chairman.

In all, Martin reported, savings and loan associations closed $1.3 billion in mortgage loans during April.

A more hopeful sign to the embattled housing industry was the board's report that S&Ls increased their commitments for future lending by $468 million—a large increase for this time of the year—to $1.4 billion.

Curfew Laws Deemed Valid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court backed big-city curfews Monday by rejecting the proposition that people cannot be arrested for assembling peacefully on city streets and in parks.

The 6-1 ruling dismissed as insubstantial an appeal by a group of Philadelphia residents who violated a curfew imposed in 1968 following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The denial of a hearing into this new and common approach to the possibility of civil disturbances drew a complaint from Justice William O. Douglas that the court was sidestepping serious free-speech issues.

The result of the action is a green light to urban officials to decide when people should be ordered off the streets as well as authorization for the prosecution of more than 100 Philadelphians who massed to plant a tree in King's honor and press for civil rights legislation.

All the gatherings were peaceful, but clearly in conflict with the state-of-emergency rules declared by Mayor James H. Tate, banning gatherings of more than 12 people at one time.

In a second decision, the court gave antiwar demonstrators to right to wear military uniform as they mock the government's policies.

The ruling, unanimous except for a technical exception by Justice John N. Harlan, strikes down a federal law that made it a crime to wear a uniform in a movie or a play that pokes fun at the military.

The law had been evoked against Daniel J. Schacht, a war protester, who helped put on a water-pistol fight outside Houston's induction center in 1967 to demonstrate against the war.

Schacht wore an Army blouse and an old officer's hat graced with an upturned eagle. He was sentenced to six months in prison and fined $250.

Justice Hugo L. Black, speaking for the court, said actors have always had considerable freedom of expression and Schacht's water-pistol skit was entitled to the same protection.

Moreover, the justice added, the Constitution does not permit punishment of an actor for satirizing the government, in military garb or otherwise.

In a third decision, the court again directed the states to comply with the constitutional requirement that defendants be given a speedy trial.

The right, said Chief Justice Warren E. Burger for a unanimous court, is not theoretical or abstract, but one rooted in the hard reality that witnesses may die, records get lost and memories dim.

The decision reversed the conviction of Robert Dean Dickey, a Florida truck driver, who had to wait seven years to be tried for a motel holdup.

Blast Helicopters Cong Ambush GI's

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers were reported engaged in sharp fighting 10 miles inside Cambodia Monday while a U.S. infantry company was ambushed by the enemy farther south along the border.

Word of the scattered actions came as the U.S. Command reported that American battlefield deaths had passed the 200 mark in 25 days of operations in Cambodia.

Enemy gunfire kept U.S. helicopters from evacuating wounded South Vietnamese paratroopers for several hours from the battle area near Highway 7 east of the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Mimot.

The choppers finally broke through the ground fire to haul out the casualties.

The fighting began Sunday and increased in tempo Monday, but by nightfall it tapered off, field reports said.

Paratrooper casualties were described as light to moderate. There was no immediate count on enemy losses.

Two Americans were reported killed and 10 wounded in the company ambush on a jungle trail half a mile inside Cambodia.

Field reports said the company was ambushed during a reconnaissance mission about 35 miles northwest of South Vietnam's Tay Ninh city. Fighter-bombers, artillery and rocketfiring helicopters pounded enemy positions on two sides of the embattled company but enemy losses were not known.

U.S. forces sweeping Cambodian jungles turned up more big enemy stockpiles of munitions, food and medical supplies in areas ranging from 80 to 100 miles north of Saigon.

One cache, discovered by troops of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division, yielded 24 tons of rice and nearly a ton of medical supplies, including medicines, bandages, surgical instruments and bed sheets.

The equipment was stored in 100-pound packs in underground bunkers, officers said.

The U.S. Command reported that as of Monday, 201 Americans had been killed and 756 wounded in the Cambodian offensive.

South Vietnamese losses in Cambodia stand at more than 600 killed and more than 2,600 wounded. The Allies claim to have killed about 9,000 Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

The enemy has eased pressure on Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, after consolidating its power in the eastern provinces except in the areas of allied operations.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have scaled down the major attacks that followed the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk and concentrated more on hit and run guerrilla-style forays.

Communist sources said the decision was prompted by Hanoi's realization that it could not easily justify in the eyes of the world an all-out conquest in a country with a far different history and culture.

The enemy has halted an offensive that was on the verge of seizing Kompong Cham, Cambodia's third largest city.

Cambodian Foreign Minister Yen Sambaur arrived in Saigon for a three-day visit and began talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

Before leaving Phnom Penh, Sambaur told newsmen he was going to ask that American and South Vietnamese troops remain in Cambodia beyond President Nixon's June 30 pullout date.

In Washington, presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the White House hadn't received Sambaur's request but that it would be denied in any case.

"We have stated our policy," Ziegler said. "All United States personnel will be out of Cambodia by June 30."

A government spokesman in Saigon said Thieu and Sambaur discussed the status of Vietnamese residents in Cambodia and the "foundation for future relations between the two governments and the two peoples."

Military sources in Vientiane said Laotian government forces have occupied Phou Luang Noi, important government guerrilla training center on the southwest rim of the Bolovens plateau in southern Laos.

Israelis Reenter Lebanese Terrain

BEIRUT (AP) — An Israeli armored unit crossed briefly into southern Lebanon Monday, setting off fears that a major invasion was under way and would further swell the flood of refugees from border villages.

But the Israeli military command said it had only conducted "patrolling activity" in the border area with 28 men and four tanks.

Radio programs were interrupted in Beirut to announce a "new aggression on Lebanon."

Lebanon reported the incursion lasted nearly four hours, during which the Israeli "armored tactical force" clashed with Lebanese troops near the village of Yaroun, a mile from the border.

One Lebanese soldier was killed and six wounded, said a communique, and a mobile 106mm recoilless rifle was destroyed.

Israeli losses were put at one tank destroyed and a half-track damaged.

A large scale Israeli reprisal has been feared since Arab guerrillas ambushed an Israeli school bus last Friday, killing 12, most of them children.

Israeli shelled four border towns and villages that day, killing 20 and wounding 40 but reports of Israeli troop and tank concentrations supported speculation there was more to come.

Lebanon's first announcement of Monday's attack reflected the government's nervousness. The assault was backed by planes and artillery, said a communique, and initially described as a major operation.

The later version amended an earlier report that fighter aircraft were involved.

In Tel Aviv, a senior general staff officer said the deepest penetration about a mile in the same frontier region where Arab Guerrillas attacked the bus. He said the operation was conducted by two units on foot and four tanks.

There was little firing, the officer added and no Israeli casualties.

He said the purpose of the operation was to take positions on heights overlooking the border area and "if we see Al Fatah or Syrian Al Saika guerrillas, hit them."

The Israeli officer said the four tanks patrolled around the village of Yaroun, about 18 miles east of the Mediterranean, for two hours after noon.

They were fired upon by a Lebanese army recoilless gun and returned the fire, hitting the target.

Hijack 3 Planes Within 24 Hours

NEW YORK (AP) — A man with a gun commandeered an American Airlines jet and ordered the pilot to fly to Havana on Monday several hours after an armed woman hijacked a Delta Airlines plane to Cuba.

They were the second and third hijackings to the island in 24 hours.

A Mexicana de Aviacion plane with 72 passengers and a crew of seven was hijacked to Cuba on Sunday night.

The Delta plane, with 96 passengers and a crew of six aboard, was hijacked between Atlanta and Miami. Havana radio said the woman hijacker was accompanied by her 12-year-old son.

The American Airlines Boeing 727 was on a Chicago to New York flight when it was seized.

The hijacker permitted the 67 passengers to get off during a refueling stop at Kennedy airport here but took the seven crewmen on the flight to the Cuban capital.

An airline spokesman said the passengers apparently did not know the plane was being hijacked until it landed here.

He said the armed man, identified as a Cuban, did not enter the cockpit, but forced a stewardess to relay his orders over the plane's intercom system. He had pulled a gun on one of the stewardesses in the rear of the plane and said he wanted it to fly to Cuba.

The passengers were told only that they were landing at Kennedy instead of LaGuardia, because of bad weather.

Havana radio said the woman hijacker of the Delta plane was armed with a .38-caliber revolver. It did not identify her.

Delta's vice president for operations, T.P. Ball, was aboard the flight, which had originated in Chicago and made a stop at Louisville, Ky.

The Mexican plane was en route from the resort island of Cozumel to Merida, the capital of Yucatan, when it was taken over by an unknown number of hijackers.

Blame Outsiders For Dissent Begin College Inquiry

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Two state university presidents said Monday that resistance to the war and other social ills are basic causes of campus unrest but they blamed destructive outbreaks on "dedicated destroyers."

Their testimony, along with that of student leaders, was given at a hearing held by the Illinois House on recent disorders and the closing of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Student spokesmen advocated a greater role for students in university policy-making decisions.

Delyte W. Morris, SIU president, told the lawmakers "The greatest problem is the itinerant student or the non-student who foments dissent on the campuses."

"We haven't found a way to cleanse ourselves of such students," Morris said.

Dr. David Dodd Henry, University of Illinois president, said during some demonstrations, guerrilla "hit and run" tactics are employed or manipulated by strovers."

In handling disciplinary cases, Henry said, the university has met delays between arrest and court trial.

He said, however, although measures to strengthen and speed up the disciplinary system have been taken, "it should not be assumed that acceleration of the disciplinary process will automatically restore tranquility."

Edward Pinto, chairman of the U. of I. Undergraduates Association, said that in addition to escalation of the war and the student deaths at Kent and Jackson State Universities, students are restless because they have a feeling of "powerlessness" in communicating with educational and governmental officials.

"The administrators of our colleges and universities are too often deaf to legitimate grievances and calls for needed reform," Pinto asserted.

John Patrick McAtee, president of the Northern Illinois University Student Association, said it is not possible to cure campus problems by dismissing disrupt-

"There will have to be an enormous change made in the structure of higher education if it is not to be torn apart," McAtee said.

He advocated giving 18-year-olds the right to vote as a more useful solution than merely allowing students greater voices in university administration.

Morris said resistance to the draft, the Vietnam war, to social flaws such as pollution and to social problems such as conformity to dress find an outlet in demonstrations.

"In all probability," Morris declared, "campus violence stems from the frustration of having no acceptable and workable machinery through which these resistances can be expressed and acted upon."

Morris said SIU at Carbondale was shut down May 12 "to avoid almost inevitable bloodshed and further destruction of property by an uncontrollable mob."

Rhoden A. Smith, president of Northern Illinois University at DeKalb, testified that since May 4, when the four students at Kent were killed, there have been dealing with a new phenomenon — a body of student opinion too wide and too serious to be dismissed as 'a few radicals.'"

"Meeting student dissent with force is one way of coping, and becomes necessary, when as last week in DeKalb, honest political dissent deteriorates into childish vandalism."

"But if nothing else come of all this, I hope we now realize that force of arms is the least satisfactory way imaginable of dealing with genuine concern of students about the war and national conditions."

John Lowe, student body president at Chicago Circle Campus, said students are frustrated by the ills of society and are "only voicing their disgust" by demonstrations.

"I almost feel it's useless to hold this hearing because many here are set on their convictions," Lowe said.

Tom Busch, spokesman for an SIU student group, asked that an independent, fact-finding commission be named to make an investigation and submit recommendations.

Hard Questions On Vietnam

"It's time to leave," says the National Observer, a publication not known for going off editorially half-cocked.

In a sober and reasoned statement in its May 4 issue, its editors reiterate their belief in "the nobility of America's purpose" and note their long-time support of our armed involvement in Vietnam.

But "it's time to leave," and the editors say they "have come to this conclusion in pain. We have come to it because we are convinced that the peoples of Indochina, so different in their attitudes from Americans, are beyond America's power—or perhaps will be the word—to democratize and protect. We have come to it because all the alternatives, shorn of jargon, are even less acceptable . . .

"The Vietnam war is a disaster for the United States . . . For five bloody years the United States has tried to put starch in these allies and their institutions. It's time to leave them the weapons to carry on. It's time to leave them to their own devices and determination."

No SST Production Loans

For the first time we have an official admission that the controversial SST project may turn out to be too chancy for private investment. That is the plain implication of remarks by James M. Beggs, undersecretary of transportation, in an appearance before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

Beggs posed the big "if" that those against proceeding with the supersonic transport venture have often called attention to. If private financing does not become available, he said, the Department of Transportation plans to ask Congress for approval of government-backed loans to finance

Who in America today will disagree? Unanswered, however, is the question of just how we go about leaving.

Should it be immediately, as fast as ships can carry the troops home? Or should it be gradually, in an attempt to salvage something? If so, how gradually, and how much salvage?

The Observer does not say. The Observer does not know. The so-called Silent Majority does not know. Tragically, the President and all his generals may not know.

The President's expansion of the war into Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia was announced as a short-term campaign whose purpose is to make possible the continued, gradual withdrawal of American troops, while giving South Vietnam a fighting chance to survive when that process is finally completed. It has been called a gamble, but it is only a part of the whole long-range gamble of gradual withdrawal.

The real question is becoming: Can America itself survive the gamble?

production of the huge aircraft.

The wisdom of such an undertaking is highly questionable—wisdom in the sense of acceptability as a matter of public interest. Some 640 million dollars of federal money already has been spent on SST research and development, and another 290 million is being sought in Congress. Spending that much tax money on development of a commercial airliner of dubious ultimate benefit to the public is bad enough. For the government to put up several billion dollars more in the form of guaranteed loans would be folly. Let the SST stand on its merits in attracting investment.

A GLANCE Into The Past

It seems to rain these days without difficulty and the weather clerk continues to prophesy more of the same.

The continued rains are having a dulling effect on the Illinois College fund campaign. Only Waverly and Franklin Townships have been solicited to date, and the results have been most flattering.

The masons on the new high school building are getting $4.05 for a nine hour day and they are asking for $5 for eight hours, or 62½ cents per hour. Today the cost of building makes it well nigh prohibitory and the question arises, what will be the outcome?

U.S.-Canadian Coexistence Poses Many Problems

By JOHN BEST
Canadian Press Writer
OTTAWA (AP)—As Canada's foreign secretary, Lester B. Pearson said in 1951: "The days of relatively easy and automatic political relations with our neighbor are, I think, over."

The statement drew widespread comment, including some criticism, on both sides of the border. Today the same opinion likely would bring a what-else-is-new reaction.

In recent years, as Pearson forecast, the complexities of the relationship have spawned many issues between Canada and its neighbor. The issues range from the area of defense to Canada's proposal to curb Arctic pollution. Washington opposes the bill, now before Parliament, which would extend Canadian jurisdiction 100 miles seaward from the Arctic coast for the purpose of pollution control.

One ingredient in the new, more hard-nosed regime of relations between the two countries has been what some call a rising tide of nationalism in Canada. Another is the present time of troubles that the United States is going through, domestically and in Southeast Asia. J.J. Greene, Canada's minister of energy, lumps the two ingredients together in a cause and effect relationship.

"Part of the cause for the rise of that new Canadian nationalism and determination to build something unique rests in the malaise that exists in your land —what appears to many as the sudden and tragic disappearance of the American dream which, in some ways has turned to nightmare," Greene told a meeting of U.S. oilmen in Denver last week.

This came toward the end of a speech in which he criticized Washington for imposing restrictions on imports of Canadian oil to the U.S. market. Canada did not find the controls "compatible with the traditional basis for trade and economic relations between the United States and Canada," Greene said.

Rightly or wrongly, the controls have been interpreted by many Canadians as part of a U.S. squeeze play through which Washington hopes to obtain Canadian acquiescence in a policy for developing the continent's resources.

In a speech at Buffalo, Greene applied pressure to another trouble spot: Great Lakes pollution.

He said Canada is looking to the international boundary waters treaty of 1909 to insure that the United States acts to remedy pollution affecting Canada's half of the lakes.

Some Americans are unhappy with the inroads made into their automotive market by motor vehicles and parts made in Canada under the 1965 auto production pact. They would like some agreement changes, which Canada resists.

Other issues concern defense and related matters.

Canada has been marking time for three years on a Pentagon request for tanker refueling facilities in Canada for the Strategic Air Command, and even longer on a request that North Bay, Ont., be designated as an alternate headquarters to Colorado Springs, Colo., for the North American Defense Command.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau has publicly questioned the wisdom of the U.S. decision to proceed with an antiballistic missile defense system, though he has avoided condemning it outright.

There are continuing, nonofficial rumblings in Ottawa about failure to consult Canada on matters affecting North American security, though the two are supposed to belong to a cooperative partnership.

Canada protested against the U.S. nuclear test blast in the Aleutian Islands last year, on grounds that it might have set off an earthquake and in turn cause a tidal wave to British Columbia. The United States went ahead with the test anyway. There was no earthquake.

One irritant in relations, though probably not a major one, has been the flow of U.S. deserters and draft dodgers into Canada and Canada's policy of allowing them haven.

Over-all, Canadians seem more preoccupied than usual with a perennial problem: how their country should go about trying to coexist with a neighbor which happens to be the most powerful state in the world.

Law For Today

Q. My lawyer and two of his secretaries served as witnesses to my will. Now I am wondering if this was legal. Was it?

A. It was legal and very proper since it enables the lawyer to keep track of the whereabouts of your witnesses. Also, if a witness dies the validity of his or her signature could readily be established from files in the lawyer's office. Only two witnesses, who are neither beneficiaries nor related to the will's maker, were required. The third one was for good measure.

Outlook Is Dismal In Poverty War

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is almost always some good news to be found about improving economic conditions for some of the nation's blacks. But let's take a look this time at some of the stubbornly persistent bad news.

One of the greatest poverty trouble spots for black Americans is the family with a "female head of household." More than half of such families in the United States were below the poverty level in 1968.

The bad news is that the proportion of female-headed families in the black community is increasing. In 1969, more than 27 per cent of Negro and other nonwhite families were headed by women. In 1950, that ratio was only 17.6 per cent. Less than 10 per cent of white families are female-headed today, and that ratio has hardly changed in 20 years.

These are Census Bureau figures, of course, gleaned from an important new report thus far given little notice.

The way all this works out in income terms is staggering. If you look at the earnings spread of black families, you find that at levels above $10,000 a year, some 90 per cent of the families are headed by men. Turn the lens toward the low end of the spectrum and you discover that 56 per cent of the families earning less than $3,000 a year are headed by women.

The answer, the Census report indicates, is simple but painful. A Negro woman working all year, full-time, earns only about two-thirds as much as her male counterpart. And with every passing day there are more such women, trying at once to support and to raise their families. The female heads of families who are not working (and 50 per cent do) are obviously dependent upon welfare funds altogether.

The steady upward march of that key figure—the number of black families headed by women—ought to give grave pause to lawmakers and others who glibly hold out the promise of a quick end to poverty if only we stop spending $20 billion or more on war and "get our priorities straight."

And the best thing the "end poverty now" sign-bearers might do is to park their placards, take a bus ride out to Suitland, Md., (census headquarters) and ask to have a look at the figures. From a maze of charts and tables, the harsh realities will leap out at them.

Clearly, the significant gains made by many blacks in income, education, jobs and housing are being achieved despite the terrible drag effect of the black poverty pool, nothing seems to help very much right now. For example, in many Negro families there are two or more wage-earners. But a sixth of such families are classed as poor. The extra earners do not lift them high enough.

Those who think a move to the suburbs from crumbling inner cities offers some magic answer for black families had better take another look. The percentage of Negro families below the poverty line is nearly the same for those living in suburbs as for those in central cities.

Incidentally 55 per cent of the total U.S. black population now lives in central cities—and the increase since 1960 of at least 2.6 million is due mostly to the excess of births over deaths rather than net immigration from farms and smaller towns.

The high visibility of the urban black poor, concentrated incredibly in segregated ghetto zones, is misleading in one respect.

Ann Landers:

Grieving Parents Warned Not To Be Permissive

Dear Ann Landers: I can't stop thinking about that little boy who accidentally shot his sister while playing with the father's gun.

Let us pray the child's parents don't make the same mistake my husband's parents made under similar circumstances. He, too, accidentally killed his sister. His grief-stricken mother and father did everything under the sun to lessen the boy's feelings of guilt. They showered him with attention and gifts and catered to his every whim. The results were disastrous. He grew up to be selfish, inconsiderate, wildly egocentric—completely without concern for others.

The death of a child is a tragedy. But the ruin of a beautiful, bright, promising youngster is equally tragic. The best way to recover from a death in the family is to emerge from the valley of grief as rapidly as possible and do something constructive for the living. Sometimes professional guidance is needed.

I hope the parents of the dead child will stop blaming themselves and treat the surviving youngster just as they would have had the tragedy not occurred. The inclination to be too permissive or excessively over-protective can be disastrous. I know because I am living with it.—Wichita Wife

Dear Reader: Thank you for an excellent letter. And now may I add a word? The surviving child sometimes attempts to take advantage of grieving parents. Parents should be alert to such maneuvering and not permit it.

Dear Ann Landers: This is a ridiculous complaint and I know it, but a situation exists in our office that is embarrass-

A girl I work with has a fantastic wardrobe. She could go for a month and a half without wearing the same dress twice. I'm sure she has a thing about not repeating outfits and in order to show up in a different outfit every day she has taken to wearing her cocktail dresses. Some of these party numbers are backless and slashed to the navel. When she bends down to put the mail in the bottom slots, about 20 guys rush over to "help."

Yesterday she wore a sequined mini that looked like a skating costume. I'm sure it glows at night. The office errand runner (age 17) swallowed his chewing gum when he saw her. Several of us girls think she is cheapening the office. Should somebody say something?—Saving It for My Husband

Dear Saving: The office manager is the one who should "say something," but obviously he likes what he sees, and from your description, he sees plenty. It would do no good to speak to the girl. She knows what she is doing and is enjoying it immensely.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I got into a frank discussion with another couple last night. Today my wife isn't speaking to me. This question came up: Would any of us remarry if something should happen to our mates? The others all said they would not remarry. I said I would. My wife claims I don't love her and that I humiliated her in front of our friends. What do you say?—Ceiling Zero

Dear Zero: Widows and widowers who have had happy marriages tend to remarry. It is a compliment rather than an insult to the deceased partner. Your wife should be flatter-

TUESDAY, MAY 26—Born today, you are not one who thinks very long or hard about the impression you may be making on other people. Indeed, you care very little about that impression so long as you feel that you have not gone against your own standards, overturned your own principles, denied your own talents or abilities, you are satisfied with yourself—regardless of what others may think. With such an attitude you are destined to be considered an individual—and to be one!

A person of deep and lasting affections, it is easy for you to enter into close relationships with others—and even easier for you to keep such relationships going. You do not concern yourself overmuch with the quantity of such relationships—but the quality is of the utmost importance to you and you will work long and hard to see that the quality is right. Those who become your friends enter into an experience of great worth.

Although in your early adulthood you will be given to periods of wanderlust, real maturity will bring with it a real desire for domesticity. Your older years will be filled with the satisfactions of family life. A loving spouse, children—perhaps not your own, but at least those of other people—and warm friends will bring you joy and happiness.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, May 27
GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—The time has come to cease being an interested bystander. Express your opinion openly and you can help others solve difficulties.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Controversy may rage about you—but you would be wise to keep out of it. Let others air their views, but keep yours to yourself.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—You will find no advantage in not being honest with or about another. Let your personal integrity guide actions.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Listen to the suggestions of all who offer them. You can't go wrong merely lending an ear; weigh what you hear.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Make sure you are thinking within the same frame of reference as your partner. Otherwise, you may find yourselves at cross purposes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—A little knowledge goes a long way toward understanding another at this time. Don't be disappointed by vagueness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—The wise Sagittarius will question those things about him which do not appear to fit in with the general plan he has in mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)—Begin at once to look for the answer to your present problem where a personal relationship is concerned. Don't overlook the obvious.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Ideals are your strength during a day which seems calculated to test your principles. Be sure to confide in a friend.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Surface facts may not tell the whole story. Seek beneath the surface if you would discover the real reason for irritations.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Today's puzzle may well be tomorrow's certain knowledge. Don't be surprised by a sudden success in an old matter.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Take care that the present approach is not an entirely superficial one. Do your best to prevent disturbance.

Have You Written A Book?

The executive director of a well-known New York publishing firm will be in Jacksonville in late June. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

Stateville Inmates Cheer Through Concert

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — About 2,000 inmates at Stateville penitentiary in Joliet cheered and applauded through a one-hour concert by popular folk singers Peter, Paul and Mary held on the prison grounds Sunday afternoon.

The group agreed to sing at Stateville after stockbroker Ira Distenfield learned that the group would be performing in Chicago.

Distenfield, 23, teaches a class in the stock market at the prison on Mondays and is a member of a state advisory commission on prisons.

The group came in from Memphis, Tenn. and were flown by helicopter to the prison grounds. The concert was held outdoors, on the baseball field, with the guards staying in the background.

Simon Names 'Task Force' For SIU Probe

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois Lt. Gov. Paul Simon Monday named a 22-member committee to "formulate methods for trying to avoid future difficulties at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale."

Simon said: "This committee is being formed at the suggestion of Jackson County State's Atty. Richard Richman. The aim is not to investigate the past, but to try to formulate methods for avoiding difficulties in the future."

"My hope is that the recommendations will not only have relevance for the Carbondale community and Southern Illinois University, but for the state and perhaps for those beyond the borders of our state."

Simon received a telegram earlier this month from Richman asking him to establish a "task force" to determine the cause of campus violence and recommend solutions.

The request was made in the heat of SIU campus unrest, and Simon declined to take immediate action saying he would wait until tempers cooled.

Named to head the committee was Circuit Court Judge Paul Verticchio of Macoupin County. The committee is composed of SIU administrators, faculty members and student leaders; Carbondale, Jackson County and state law enforcement officials; businessmen, women, civic leaders and the clergy.

Betty Canary For Ma, A Long, Hot Summer

Oh, look, mother. The children are home early today. Good morning, Jerry. Good morning, Sally. Good grief! I forgot this was the last day of school.

See mother? Mother is still in her nightgown. She is drinking a cup of coffee. She thought she was going downtown shopping and out to lunch today. Lucky mother. Now she can stay home and have peanut butter sandwiches with you...

after she cleans up the strawberry jam you smeared all over the table at breakfast.

Listen. What is mother saying? She is saying, "I thought you were in school. In school WHERE YOU BELONG."

Go back to school children. Run, run, run! Maybe you can get there before they lock the doors. Maybe you can get inside the school and THEN they will lock the doors.

If you hurry, maybe you can get back to school before your teacher leaves. Maybe you will see her blue car parked in the lot. Doesn't that give you an idea? You can play a trick on the teacher!

Get in the back seat of the car and crouch down so she will not see you. Wait until she parks in her driveway and then jump up and say, "Surprise! Surprise!" Won't she be surprised? If she is so surprised she falls to the ground, she is not playing a trick on you. She is having a heart attack. Telephone a doctor and tell him her address. Do not tell him YOUR address.

Aren't tricks fun? If you play this kind of trick very often, you will get a surprise. They will send you to a special school. It is called Reform School. Aren't surprises fun?

REV. MECKFESSEL AT NORTH GREENE BACCALAUREATE

WHITE HALL — The annual North Greene senior high school Baccalaureate Service was held Sunday night, May 24, at the North Greene gym.

Rev. Harvey Meckfessel, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, delivered the sermon on Life Is Relational. Rev. J. Wm. Werner, pastor of the First United Methodist church, read the scripture, and Rev. Robert W. Williams, pastor of the First Christian church of Roodhouse, pronounced the benediction. The procession and recessional was played by Gail Williams.

Acting principal Thomas K. Oates has announced this year's class is the largest to graduate from North Greene with 130 candidates.

White House Handshaking
On July 4, 1801, President Jefferson held a reception at the White House. Jefferson introduced the custom of having the guests shake hands instead of bowing stiffly, a custom observed by Presidents Washington and Adams.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Competitive Sports
Have Been Drawbacks

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
It is time again to look at Little League baseball from the health standpoint. Dr. N. J. Giannestras, a Cincinnati orthopedist, believes that organized baseball and football programs for children under 12 should be abolished and that such programs for those between 12 and 14 should be closely supervised because of the great risk of serious injury.

Competitive sports for young boys have spread across the nation but, far from preparing the players for a life of professional sport or even for greater physical fitness, all too often they result in permanent damage to a joint. The greatest danger is to the elbow joints of pitchers, nearly all of whom wind up with a traumatic arthritis or loose fragments of cartilage in the joint space. In young football players similar damage occurs in the knees.

Since there is little likelihood of abolishing organized sports for the 8 to 14 age group, Dr. Giannestras recommends that no boy be allowed to pitch more than three innings in one day three times a week and that young pitchers be encouraged to develop speed and accuracy and not attempt to throw curves. Overemphasis on winning at all costs is the underlying cause of most injuries.

Q—For the last few months every time I have to say "No" to my oldest daughter, 9, she starts to cry. This upsets me very much. What do you advise?

A—Try to find out what is behind this change in your daughter's behavior. Assure her in every way of your love for her and your regard for her as a valued member of the family. When you must cross her, do so gently but firmly and explain your reasons for denying her wishes. That is the only way she will ever gain emotional maturity.

Q—I'm 12 years old. I've just read a list of cancer symptoms and I'm scared. No one in my family ever had cancer but I have what feels like a lump in both breasts. They have been there for four years. Could this be cancer?

A—When feeling your breasts for tumors, you should use the flat of your hand, not your finger tips. If the lumps can be felt in this way, your doctor should examine you. Any tumor, however, that has been present for four years is probably a cyst, not a cancer.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Jim: "The ethics of deceptive play at bridge are most unusual. You may play an unusual card in an effort to create a false impression as to the rest of your hand, but you aren't supposed to deceive with the manner in which you play a card."

Oswald: "On the other hand a player who takes advantage of an opponent's mannerism is supposed to do so at his own risk."

Jim: "That is within reason. If you lead a suit and an opponent studies carefully and then plays a card which turns out later to be a singleton, you may get redress in a tournament. The director or the protest committee may feel that this improper hesitation has victimized you."

Oswald: "Here is one that did appear before a protest committee at a national championship. West was a top ranking player and naturally enough did not lead his ace of hearts against the spade slam. He was sure it would keep. South let the club jack run around to his king and quick as a flash led his four of hearts. West should have been ready for that play but he wasn't. He hesitated for a second."

Jim: "Didn't South call for dummy's king and make his slam?"

Oswald: "No, he didn't. West found a way out of his difficulty. He continued to hesitate. Then he pulled out a card, put it back, hesitated some more and finally played the nine. South started to do some thinking of his own. Finally he called for dummy's jack and lost his slam. South protested on the grounds that when West hesitated unduly he had done so with the intent of deceiving him."

Jim: "I don't suppose the committee gave South any redress."

Oswald: "No. They laughed him out of court."

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — While certain industry observers are predicting trouble for television shows that attract older viewers, everything is simply wonderful, wunnerful for Lawrence Welk.

Proof: he recently signed for his 10th season with the same sponsor, J.B. Williams. And that's for a 52-week season, not the usual 32-39 of most series.

Welk's lifting hour has been on ABC since July 2, 1955, and it may last forever. This despite the recent trend away from older-viewer appeal shows by advertisers aiming at the 18-49 market. One longtime seer of the television market even predicted that Welk and Ed Sullivan, both with mature audiences, would vanish from the networks after next season.

"We have more to go on than what comes out of Madison Avenue," the bandleader said defiantly. "I feel that any show that gives an hour of pure entertainment stands a good chance of survival."

"I plan to make that man eat his words."

Lawrence Welk is likely to do just that. For 15 years in network television he has been defying the scoffers, the wisecracks and the fun-pokers. His style seems to have remained the same, say, mid-1930s, but in reality he has changed.

"We are changing our mode of presentation all the time, yet you can't make the change so severe that you sink with it. That happens with a lot of shows. They start making changes and all of a sudden they have no format; they're neither fish nor fowl."

"Next season I'll try to make improvements, without going too far. I like to pull a little stunt now and then, like on the first show this season when I came on as a hippie. Some of the elderly people thought I had changed my style. I hadn't."

Welk boasted of his "nice, loyal, stable audience." It includes the very young—he notices the youngsters who cheer for his bubble when he appears on floats in parades.

"We lose them when they become teen-agers," he admitted. "For that reason Saturday night is the best night on television for my show; it's date night for the youngsters."

"Then we get them back when they are newlyweds and start staying home. It's the mothers and fathers-and the youngsters—who support our show."

Cost is another factor that contributes to the longevity of the Welk show; it is the least expensive variety hour in nighttime television. He has long maintained the practice of paying his performers originally 20, now 45, at union scale, reasoning that they are rewarded by personal appearances, a profit-sharing plan and other benefits.

"There is a trend in this country for people wanting more money for less work," he observed. "I don't believe that is right under the free enterprise system. People should earn more money by creating a better product."

Incidentally one of the changes in the Welk show over the years has been the disappearance of his trademark "wunnerful, wunnerful." He talks better now. He was supposed to use the phrase on a recent "Here's Lucy" show but kept saying "wonderful." Warned Lucille Ball at rehearsals: "You say 'wonderful' instead of 'wunnerful' once more and I'll slug you!" He got it right the next time.

Teachers Seek Employment In Quiet Country

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Teachers by the hundreds, uneasy in restless U.S. cities, are looking for jobs in this relatively quiet mountain country even though the change means a cut in salary.

There has been a flood of applications from out-of-state teachers, looking for jobs in elementary and high schools in a state that three years ago was plagued by a serious teacher shortage.

About 1,500 teachers have applied to the Great Falls system, to fill 125 vacancies in a system whose enrollment has been stationary for two years.

Paul T. O'Hare, Billings superintendent, said some teachers want to come to Montana even if it means a salary of $3,000 a year less than they were receiving in the cities.

Teachers' salaries in Montana range from approximately $6,400 for a teacher with no experience and a bachelor's degree to about $11,000 for a master's degree and 12-15 years experience.

"Many people from the bigger cities and larger urban areas where they have dissent problems," O'Hare said, "want to get out of the big city and come to Montana."

O'Hare said the teachers will take "awful salary cuts." He said, "They are pleased to see the clean cities and the clean looking students."

Applications are up 400 from two years ago, O'Hare said.

Kalispell Superintendent D.P. Langbell said his school district has processed more than 600 applications for 22 openings. Many are from the East and California.

All but three of the Kalispell jobs are now filled.

U.S. Air Power May Aid Viets After June 30

WASHINGTON (AP) — The South Vietnamese Air Force most likely will furnish the close air support for Vietnamese troops in any future operations in Cambodia, defense officials said Monday.

U.S. air power used in Cambodia after July 1, they said, probably will concentrate on bombing enemy supply routes and concentrations in the same way American warplanes have been trying to interdict the Ho Chi Minh trail running through Laos.

This was the clearest indication yet of how air strikes into Cambodia will be handled after the deadline for total U.S. troop pullout from Cambodia.

A State Department spokesman, press officer Carl Bartsch, said U.S. air and logistic support for South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia may halt on June 30 and then resume in a day or so.

"I think it's fair to say that when the United States withdraws its forces from Cambodia by June 30 that air and logistic support would also be withdrawn," Bartsch said. He added: "I am distinguishing between that and what might arise in the future after June 30."

Newsweek then asked whether U.S. support for the South Vietnamese might be cut off on June 30 and restored on July 1, and he agreed that something like that might develop.

At his May 8 news conference President Nixon said he expects the South Vietnamese to leave Cambodia about the same time as the Americans and that when the latter leave their air and logistical supports will go with them. This seemed to imply that if the South Vietnamese remained they'd be on their own.

Pentagon sources said no decision to support them has been made yet.

In the Senate, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho expressed concern that mounting pressures on President Nixon to continue support operations "could mire us down in Cambodia despite the best intentions of the President."

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., cosponsor with Church of an amendment to cut off Cambodian operations after June 30, voiced similar concern. He said if any U.S. operations continue in Cambodia, the United States is likely to become involved in a war in support of the Lon Nol government in Cambodia.

In an unusually emotional speech from the floor, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said American deaths in Vietnam now exceed 50,000 and cried out loudly:

"I for one can stand no longer this mounting and increasing casualty list."

The Senate is due to take a preliminary vote on the issue Tuesday, but a final decision on the Cooper-Church amendment is perhaps weeks away. Tuesday's vote is on a change in wording to have the amendment declare that the proposed cutoff of funds for U.S. operations in Cambodia is designed to support Nixon's withdrawal plan.

CANCER RESEARCH

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Ian MacPherson, head of the Department of Tumor Virology at Lincoln's Inn Fields Laboratories in London, held out the prospect that at some time cancer cells may be restored to normal instead of being killed.

The hint came in an annual report of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund in which the scientist said cancerous hamster cells had been induced by drugs to return to normality.

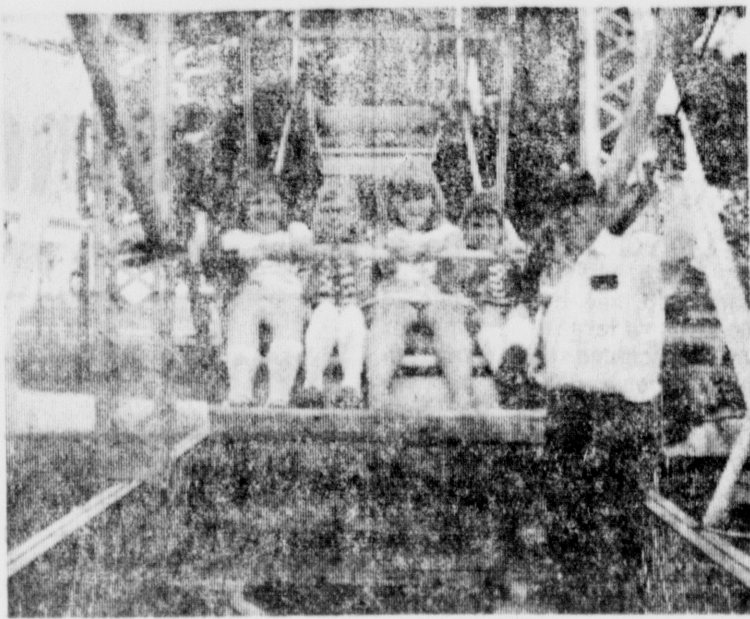

There are 35 days on which Easter can occur. They range between March 22 and April 25.

THE ROTARY WHEEL means many things to many people. To the children at Nichols Park it means a ferris wheel with music. It means happiness and memories that will last a lifetime. To the community it means contributions to the "Y," new picnic tables, and help on other civic needs. To the Rotarians it means an opportunity to practice the motto of "Service Above Self." Shown in the picture are the first to ride last Sunday afternoon. Third from left is Lisa Wood from Pittsfield. The others are Kim, Pam, and Lisa Scott from Thayer, Ill. and Rotary secretary and ferris wheel operator, D. L. Hardin.

Three summer employees were rehired for the street department: Rodney Cooley, Tim O'Rourke and Charles Groujean. They have been employed in the street department previously. The council voted approval.

A petition for building across lot lines on a tract of land located on King Street was sent to the plan commission for hearing and recommendation.

A similar proposal for duplexes was opposed by area residents. The developer said he would re-plan his program and build single family residences instead of the duplexes.

First National Police Union Forms In Denver

DENVER (AP) — The first nationwide union of policemen was formed in Denver on Monday when about 75 delegates approved a constitution for the International Brotherhood of Police Officers.

The vote was unanimous.

The constitution contains a "no strike" clause. A spokesman said: "The best interests of the public will be served by guaranteeing the public the absolute maximum protection at all times."

In a statement, the new union said organizers hope "the public will recognize this act of responsibility and agree to enter into collective bargaining agreements at every level."

Acting President John J. Cassese, for more than a decade the head of New York City's Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, said the union hopes to improve the policemen's lot throughout the nation.

Morehead also drove in the first Kansas City run off loser Jerry Crider in the second. His double scored Luis Alcaraz, who had singled and taken second on Ellie Rodriguez's single.

The Royals went ahead 2-1 in the fifth on Rodriguez's double and Pat Kelly's single.

They added five runs in the eighth, two on Bob Oliver's single, two more on a pair of bases-loaded walks and another on a wild pitch.

Screening Plan Helps Reduce Cancer Deaths

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A screening program using a combination of methods helped reduce the rate of death from breast cancer in a group of women studied, a New York research team reported today.

The project involved 62,000 women in the Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York. Half were offered the screening, and the other half received no special attention.

Preliminary findings on the study, which began in 1963, were reported today at the tenth International Cancer Congress by Sam Shapiro, a vice president of the health plan.

Among the women not offered the screening, there have been 52 deaths from breast cancer, he said. Deaths from breast cancer among women offered the screening now total 31, he said, even though the program was hampered because one-third of the women who were offered screening refused it.

Screening included a clinical examination of the breast by a physician and mammography, a technique that uses low-voltage X rays to examine soft tissues in the breast.

The women studied were aged 40 to 64, the high frequency period for breast cancer, now the leading cause of death from cancer among women. Federal census figures show that among every 100,000 women, 20 to 25 die from breast cancer a year.

After an initial screening, the women studied received three additional examinations at annual intervals.

Shapiro said 127 breast cancers were detected as the result of the screening. The value of the combination technique was demonstrated, he said, by a determination that 42 of the cancers would have been missed without mammography and 56 would have been missed without the clinical examination.

Of the 127 cancers detected, 70 per cent had not spread, which greatly improved the women's chances for survival after surgery.

Ninety per cent of the breast cancers in women generally are discovered by the women themselves because a lump appears, and by this time the cancer has spread, Dr. Philip Strax, a co-author of the report, noted.

Strax, chief of the health plan's radiology department at La Guardia hospital in New York, was joined in the study by Dr. Louis Venet, attending surgeon at Beth Israel Medical Center.

Early Uprising Lets Baltimore Down Tribe, 6-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles scored all their runs in the first two innings Monday night and rolled to a 6-2 victory over Cleveland behind the six-hit pitching of Dave McNally.

Paul Blair rapped a two-run, two-out double in the opening inning after loser Bob Miller, 1-2, issued two walks, and scored on a single by Brooks Robinson.

McNally, 8-2, opened another three-run rally in the second with a single, moved to third on Don Buford's double and scored on a single by Chico Salmon.

Mery Rettenmund's sacrifice fly sent Buford home and Salmon talked on an error by shortstop Jack Heidemann.

McNally, who struck out six, blanked the Indians until the ninth, when he walked Tony Horton and was tagged for rookie Roy Foster's fourth homer of the season.

Freehan Homer In Ninth Inning Dumps Yanks 4-3

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Freehan led off the ninth inning with his eighth home run of the season Monday night, giving the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

Freehan lined an 0-2 pitch from reliever Steve Hamilton into the left-center field stands after the Yankees had tied the game with a run in the top of the ninth.

Les Cain, 3-2, had clung to the lead since the fourth inning, when Jim Northrup's single a walk to Norm Cash and Willie Horton's towing three-run homer sent the Tigers in front 3-1, against Stan Bahnsen.

Bobby Murcer cut the deficit in half when he hit his sixth homer in the fifth and the Yankees caught up in the ninth on a walk to Ron Woods, John Ellis' single, a one-out walk to pinch hitter Ron Hansen and Horace Clarke's sacrifice liner to left.

Brewers' Errors Let Minnesota Claim 6-5 Count

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Rich Reese drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and infield dribbler as the Minnesota Twins, given new life on three Milwaukee errors in the seventh inning, rallied to beat the Brewers 6-5 Monday night.

Reese's grounder to first was the only Twin hit in a three-run seventh as Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva raced home from third and second after rookie pitcher Skip Lockwood couldn't handle the throw from Mike Hegan.

George Mitterwald had reached first to open the inning when Ted Kubiak kicked his grounder. Winning pitcher Tom Hall, 2-1, moved Mitterwald to second with a bunt and he scored the tying run when Tovar's grounder went through Tommy Harper's legs at third into left field.

Rod Carew flied out, but Kubiak muffed Oliva's slow grounder near second base. Harmon Killebrew walked to load the bases, setting up Reese's hit.

Milwaukee closed the gap in the ninth on Harper's two-out double and a run-scoring single by Russ Snyder.

The Brewers had taken a 4-3 lead in the seventh.

Supports U.S. Effort After War Zone Tour

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — A Dearborn Heights housewife says she is convinced more than ever that the United States should be in South Vietnam, after touring a combat zone where a Communist sniper fired at her, her sailor son and a friend.

"I guess I was just tired of hearing demonstrators and protesters tell me what the facts were," said Mrs. Raymond Brimmer.

"I had a son over there and I wanted to see for myself, said the trim, blonde housewife, who is in her 40s.

She said she went alone last week to Saigon to visit her son, Edward, 19, who is stationed at a naval base at Dong Tam. She said they met a 24-year-old lieutenant, who had served two tours in South Vietnam, and he agreed to take them on a jeep's tour of military installations in combat areas.

"Of course, we didn't ask anybody's permission about any of this and I certainly don't want to get that lieutenant in trouble," she said, about the trip. She declined to give his name.

She said they took a 3 1/2-day tour of American installations, including Dong Tam and Long Binh.

Mrs. Brimmer said she talked to about 20 servicemen about the war, adding: "I can tell you that they all know what they're there for. They know they have to stop communism or we'll have it here next."

"I can't forget any of their faces. I wouldn't take a million dollars for the experience," she said. "When those guys read about the protests in this country, or trying to vote to cut money off for the war, it gets them down worse than anything except getting shut out at mail call."

She said her son, an only child, enlisted in the Navy "because he believed in America."

CHICAGO COURT TO CONSIDER WELFARE CASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court directed a federal court in Chicago Monday to decide whether Illinois may reduce a person's welfare payments without giving him a hearing first.

The high court said it has ruled so far only that welfare payments may not be ended or suspended without hearings. It said the question of reduction of benefits without a hearing remains open.

The court in Chicago, in a case involving several Cook County welfare recipients, had declared unconstitutional state laws that allowed officials to proceed without notifying the recipient of changes in his status until after aid had been terminated.

BOMB SENDS MOVIE-GOERS INTO STREET

CHICAGO (AP) — A black-powder bomb exploded Sunday inside a downtown Chicago movie theater, injuring one patron and sending about 100 moviegoers scurrying into the street.

Joseph LaSota, 43, was listed in fair condition after receiving a deep cut in his lower right leg.

Police detective Art Nolan termed the blast "a relatively minor explosion" and said it was caused by a pipe capped on one end with a fuse.

Nolan said the pipe was apparently placed on a seat next to LaSota in the rear ground floor area of the theater. He added that it apparently rolled off the seat and exploded.

Clothing Union Head Condemns War Policy

NEW YORK (AP) — Breaking ranks with the AFL-CIO leadership, the head of one of the nation's largest labor unions has condemned the Nixon administration's policies in Vietnam and Cambodia, the New York Times reported yesterday.

The newspaper said that Jacob S. Potofsky, president of the 47,000 member Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America declared: "Congress must exercise its constitutional responsibility of not leaving the war-making decisions to the President alone."

In an interview with the Times held in Atlantic City, where the union opens its biennial convention today, Potofsky reportedly praised the efforts of U.S. senators seeking to cut off funds for further military operations in Cambodia.

Further criticism of the administration is contained in the prepared text of his keynote speech set for today.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Has long-term inflation become inevitable? Few people in government or industry dare answer affirmatively, for fear that the opinion might provoke the fact, but many of them are acting on that assumption.

Passage by the House of Representatives of an automatic escalator for Social Security benefits, tied to increases in the cost of living, is recognition of this belief. And there are numerous other examples.

Negotiated wage increases are being made on the assumption that the cost of living will continue to rise. Five per cent annual increases, once considered good, are now scoffed at as amounting to nothing when inflation is deducted.

You don't have to search hard either to find instances of industry raising prices not because the product has been improved or because demand is strong, but simply because the company expects its own future costs to be higher.

Perhaps the most reluctant but influential converts to the idea are the big life insurance companies. For years they sold the concept of the guaranteed fixed-dollar return, which assumed stability in dollar values.

In fact, belief in fixed returns was almost a religion with them, and some salesmen spread the notion that only a sinner would risk the future of his family by investing in anything that didn't assure a precise return.

That religion probably was a savior to some families. During the Great Depression of the 1930s especially, a guaranteed return was indeed something of value, because the dollar was stabilized or rising in value—although there weren't many of them around.

Investments in equities, such as stocks, fell into the cellar, but insurance policies paid off at first-floor levels during the depression. The payoff may not have been big, but it was there.

It wasn't until the 1960s that insurers began changing their mind. Inflation caught hold. And so did mutual funds. With the value of the dollar shrinking, sophisticated investors didn't want to be paid off in 1980 with 1960 dollars. They wanted something that would float with the tide.

Mutual funds offered this opportunity, and they grew swiftly into a $50-billion industry. Moreover, they were a direct competitor of insurers for the savings of ordinary Americans.

Now life insurers are deeply involved with mutual funds, either through acquiring existing funds or beginning their own from scratch.

The reason why is obvious: Inflation was making those guaranteed, fixed-dollar returns look paltry beside the projected returns of the mutual funds.

Insurance companies have, in effect, acknowledged their acceptance of an inflated future in their lending practices also. No longer dedicated to a fixed dollar, they now seek flexible returns on their holdings.

FUNNY BUSINESS

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices plunged sharply downward Monday on a broad scale in what was the largest single-day decline since President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 20.81 to 641.36. On Nov. 22, 1963, the day Kennedy was shot, the average closed off 21.16 points.

Monday's closing Dow level was the lowest since Dec. 18, 1962, when it ended at 640.14.

The Dow average fell more than 11 points during the first hour, drifted fractionally lower in mid-session, then started falling sharply again late in the day.

Volume picked up toward the close, and the New York Stock Exchange was running two minutes late at the bell.

A total of 12.66 million shares changed hands on the big board, up slightly from the 12.17 million traded Friday.

Declines led advances by 370 to 130, which analysts said indicated a lack of buying interest.

"We're having a complete panic," one analyst said. "It's a horrible sight. People are being ruined."

Another analyst disagreed, however. Pessimism exists on Wall Street, he said, but "once an investor gets out of Wall Street, he finds that people haven't lost confidence in the economy."

In the news background was the administration's request for an increase in the national debt limit and a statement by Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy that he was uncertain whether corporate profits would reach the level on which budget estimates were based.

Also, Democratic leaders voiced new concern over the state of the economy and called for a national conference of business and labor leaders to discuss possible measures to halt the decline.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 7.6 to 225.6, lowest since Nov. 8, 1962 when it stood at 225.3. Industrials were off 11.6, rails off 4.9, and utilities off 2.2.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange closed fractionally lower. The Amex price change index fell 0.49 to 19.57 lowest closing level in over 2 1/2 years. Volume was 4.11 million, compared with 4.08 million Friday.

Skier's Belt Bag Is Handy Gadget

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—I am answering D. M., the skier, who wanted to know how to carry eye-glasses while skiing. The safest way would be in a HARD case which snaps shut. Put this case in a jacket pocket which zips or in a belt bag such as ski patrolmen wear. I wear one of these belt bags and find it very handy for holding such things as ski wax, nail clippers, suntan oil, small bandages and a stick to keep my lips from chapping.—LILA

DEAR POLLY—D.M., who must wear glasses to enjoy the scenery when riding the chair lift but who does not wear them when skiing, is courting disaster. If glasses are required to see the scenery, they are certainly needed to see moguls, icy patches, rocks and other small obstacles that might be in the way of a skier. When I wore glasses, I wore suitable goggles over them in case of an accident. Now I usually wear goggles. There are defogging solutions on the market for goggles if that presents a problem.—MARILYN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I accidentally placed my new, white, patent-leather purse on a red candle which left marks on it. Is there any way I can remove these? I tried cleaning fluid, but it did not work.—MARGIE

DEAR POLLY—Disposable aluminum broiling pans are a great convenience but most are so light they buckle under the weight of the food. The risk of accidental spilling can be lessened by using two pans at once, one fitted inside the other. Only the top one gets dirty, so it is not expensive to do this, as the bottom one can be reused even if the top pan is beyond a good cleaning.—MARY W.
DEAR POLLY—My suggestion is for those girls who are puzzled about what to do with the hot iron when the ironing is finished and they want to be sure the children or pets do not get to it before it is cool enough to put away. Place it on a cookie sheet in the cold oven.—JOHN

ARENZVILLE UNIT ENTERTAINED IN STINSON HOME

ARENZVILLE — The Arenzville Home Extension Unit met on May 20 at the home of Mrs. Joe Stinson. Eight members answered roll call by telling the date on which their driver's license expires. Mrs. Don Nord-siek was a guest.

Mrs. Dick Bartholomew gave the special feature lesson on Flower Gardening. Attention was given to the selection of colors and varieties of flowers for borders or flower beds to provide interest and to complement the appearance of the house.

"Convenience in the Kitchen" was the major lesson given by Mrs. Gene Farmer, who prepared three recipes from those included in the lesson sheets. Hamburger stroganoff, fruit salad, and quick lunchbox cake were later served with lemonade and iced tea. The lesson also gave pointers on planning nutritious, economical, attractive and tasty meals and serving them with the least expenditure of time and work. Favorite recipes were exchanged among the members.

A letter of resignation from the Unit by Mrs. Andrew

Beniach was read.

LINCOLN SQUARE SHOPPING CENTER

Most of the talk about health these days is about dollars and cents. About how much it can cost today to see a doctor, have an operation, be in the hospital.

It's only natural. After all, what it could cost you to get well is one of the first things on your mind.

But there are health questions facing all of us today that go far beyond the cost of an appendectomy. And at least two of these questions may have far more influence on our health, and our lives, than all our appendectomies and broken legs put together.

First, it's already pretty clear that our whole system for taking care of sick people will have to be improved, if it's to serve all of us.

Second, whether we like it or not, today there are real questions about the health of our nation. As never before, fear, misunderstanding, and mistrust divide our people. As never before, our air, water, and our land itself, are threatened with death by pollution.

A few years ago, it might not have made much sense to think of all these questions as health questions.

Today, it doesn't make sense not to. Because today, the health of the individual means very little, if he lives in an unhealthy community.

No matter how healthy you think you are, you can't be healthy for long in a polluted environment. Or in a city containing thousands of people who are chronically sick, poor, and hungry.

And your personal health won't do you an ounce of good, if your country falls apart around you.

That's why we at Blue Cross and Blue Shield have begun to talk about health in the community sense. And that's why we've concentrated on the one problem that underlies all our other problems: the problem of getting all sorts of Americans to listen to each other and work together.

Our theme has been "We need each other." It is a statement so simple that in normal times it would never have to be stated.

But these are not normal times. And it is important that the commonplace be stated, if it is a commonplace that we are in danger of forgetting.

"We need each other" will continue to be our theme.

But in the coming months, we intend to focus on a more specific problem, one we've lived with first hand for 35 years: the problem of how to help Americans stay healthy.

We'll examine the many ways that all our citizens—doctors, hospital administrators, government, and the general public—can participate in reshaping our health care system, so that it will be able to take care of all of us.

And once again, we'll be trying to remind everyone of a simple commonplace:

In this, as in any human endeavor, the most precious resource we have is each other.

We need each other.

Keeping America healthy will take more than dollars and cents.

GAO: Watchdog For The U.S. Wallet

By RICHARD E. MEYER
AP Newsfeatures Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The way Chuck Hughes recalls it, one rock fell 100 yards to one side and the other landed 75 yards to the other.

"They bracketed the building," he says. But Hughes and his men were used to it. "We never got reckless, but we didn't let it bother us."

Combat veterans? No. Auditors. The kind you usually find in white shirts sitting behind desks adding columns of figures.

They were government auditors, men from the General Accounting Office—the GAO—and its headquarters in one of the huge, gray-brown buildings on the edge of the capital's Chinatown.

This is the watchdog of the watchdogs of the public purse, an arm of Congress that sees that the money goes where it is meant to go.

Yet, despite claiming to have saved the taxpayers more than $1 billion in the last five years, the GAO is not always beloved, as you will see.

The boss is Elmer B. Staats, a tall, trim 55-year-old man with a reputation for being stern and decisive. He runs a staff of 4,500 accountants, lawyers, mathematicians, economists, clerks, statisticians and specialists in management and computers.

Not all the work is done at the office, however, which was what took Chuck Hughes to Vietnam in a farflung but representative GAO investigation.

Vietnam was where the action was, where the government had poured $1.3 billion into wartime construction: airfields, loading ramps, housing for a quarter million troops and 3.8 million square feet of storage for fuel, oil and ammunition.

Most of the work had been assigned to a combine of four contractors.

Under intense pressure from the government to get the work done, the combine reached a peak production of $41 million worth of work per month—and hit that stride one month ahead of schedule.

It imported men from Korea and the Philippines, solved major engineering problems on extremely short notice and trucked its equipment and supplies into isolated and uninhabited areas.

But when GAO auditors looked into things, they found that much of the work had been awarded under a cost-plus contract, which reimbursed the builders for all of their expenses and gave them an additional fee—providing little incentive to keep costs down.

The auditors also found that the speed at which the contractors were required to mobilize to meet Department of Defense demands had created all kinds of problems in management control.

To wit:

—Buyers often specified proprietary items—ever brand names—available from only one manufacturer. This limited competition and increased the cost to the government.

—The contractors purchased materials of higher quality than commonly used in construction—and paid premium prices.

—As materials and equipment arrived in Vietnam, they were dumped at contractor depots, unidentified, unsegregated and unprotected from the weather or theft.

The GAO reported to Congress. Congressmen became more and more interested in wartime waste. And the GAO decided to open a fulltime office in Saigon—its first office in a war zone.

The General Accounting Office was established 49 years ago by Congress as one of its key ways of keeping a check on executive agencies and departments. As an arm of Congress, it operates independently of all other agencies. And it's designed to be nonpartisan.

Today, GAO men and women report costs and program results, losses and gains and overruns and underruns at 50 audit sites in all 12 departments and 60 agencies of the executive branch scattered throughout the United States and around the world.

Their findings are compiled in 16 regional offices and 30 suboffices in the United States and overseas in Frankfurt, New Delhi, Manila, Saigon and Honolulu, and sent to Washington.

Here the GAO reports to Congress, and often to the public, on whether government funds and other resources are being used for authorized activities, are being properly accounted for and reported, are being managed efficiently and economically and are achieving the objectives intended by Congress.

In measurable amounts, the GAO figures it has saved the taxpayers in fiscal 1968 a total of $232.8 million—including $30 million in savings it felt would recur in future years. In fiscal 1969, it measured savings at $187.6 million.

Often the reports carry a sting.

They have disclosed that much of $1.2 billion granted by the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration was used to build waste treatment plants on waterways where cities and industries were allowed to continue polluting nearby; that Army Reserve units selected from across the nation were not ready to mobilize and deploy as rapidly as planned in the event of war or national emergency; that the United States will contribute about $172 million to United Nations organizations this year without assurance that the money will be used effectively and efficiently, and that the Navy could have saved millions of dollars by requiring contractors to submit information certified as accurate, complete and current to support costs estimates for bombs for Vietnam.

To ferret out this kind of information, the GAO is armed with authority to examine the directly pertinent books and records of all companies holding negotiated government contracts and the records of all government agencies—except the Central Intelligence Agency and other spy groups.

Some of the GAO's most persistent problems of access are with the Department of Defense and its contractors.

Generally, says Staats, "we have had fine cooperation" with top levels at the Pentagon. But, he adds, "down through the hierarchy in the agencies and out into the installations, they tend to be more and more restrictive."

Disputes with the Department of Defense are usually handled privately. But occasionally the GAO gets piqued enough to take the matter to Congress.

Two months ago, for instance, the GAO reported that the Department of Defense wasn't keeping a central file on the new types of weapons it was acquiring or their costs.

Moreover, it said, the weapons were growing more costly as they were being developed; a dozen out of 57 of them were performing more poorly than expected and contractors were taking from six months to three years longer than expected to finish them.

To come up with its report, the GAO told Congress, it had to fight "substantial delays" by the Air Force in making the information available.

In instances where it suspects fraud, the GAO turns the matter over to the Department of Justice.

But one veteran GAO attorney can't recall a single instance in which a contractor or government employee has been convicted of fraud because of a GAO audit.

Most GAO reports are critical. Only one in recent months, praising the Strategic Air Command for its readiness, has been complimentary.

The House military operations subcommittee, headed by Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., whose state is home for several large defense firms, compiled some of the angriest testimony on record against the GAO five years ago after the GAO became increasingly critical of defense contracts.

The GAO turned up example after example of what it deemed excessive prices, improper reimbursements, unnecessary costs and unwarranted charges.

What the GAO was doing was acting as a sort of informal contract renegotiation board," says Roback. Where a renegotiation board would look at a whole series of contracts and consider the ones where the company lost as well as the ones where it gained, the GAO would consider it on a contract-by-contract basis.

"Out of the 40 cases where there was publicity that they were referring them to the Justice Department, only one might go to court as a criminal action—and then it would get dismissed, but there wouldn't be any publicity on this."

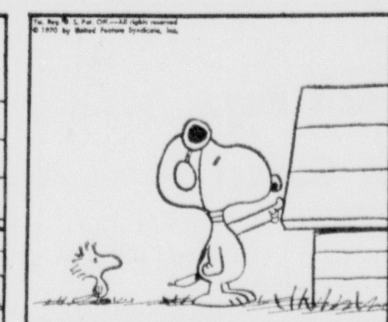

"GAO tells the executive agencies how to run their business... and interferes with the business judgment and operations of contractors," said H.M. Horner, chairman of United Aircraft Corp.

Individual contracts are still audited, but isolated examples or waste are de-emphasized. Instead, examples are used to illustrate an entire area of deficiency.

Findings are couched in constructive terms; opinion is separated from fact; the names of contractors are omitted when the GAO finds that only the contracting agencies are at fault.

And the GAO has ended its practice of criticizing government officers and employees by name and recommending publicly that they be disciplined.

Fly Girl Meets Cow Pasture

By LEE MUELLER
NEW YORK (NEA)—This, as you may know, is the 40th anniversary of stewardess service. A stewardess—as you also may know—is a rather winsome young lady who fluffs the pillows and attends to the whims of persons who ride in airplanes.

Stewardesses quite often are lovely and soft and also beautiful and those of us who appreciate this kind of professional competence have set aside a portion of this month to pay homage to them. (Considerable debate rages concerning this task, although my method is to take a stewardess to lunch or dinner or any place she'll be seen with me.)

Today, there are approximately 50,000 stewardesses in the world. Some airline advertise them as "rare birds" and use them for promotional purposes. Some travelers of my acquaintance prefer to fly with a certain airline because its stewardesses are good pillow fluffers.

It perhaps is a shade strange, then, that now the stewardess is as much a part of air travel as the control tower. Mrs. Harriet Fry Iden—one of the first stewardesses in 1930—says she probably wouldn't want the job.

"It all seems so cut and dried," she said. "It seem to be just a constant serving of meals. There's no personal contact with passengers any more and I don't think the girls expect the unexpected like we did. They expect to complete the flight without trouble. We didn't."

(Ah... well... we can't have everything, can we?)

Mrs. Iden, who now lives in Glendale, Calif., with her husband, was one of eight registered nurses hired by United Airlines four decades ago and recalls landing in cyclones in Omaha and in several cow pastures of varied textures.

"I remember we met at 7 a.m. in Chicago for the flight to Cheyenne, Wyo., for training," she said. "I was a little red-haired country girl from Polo, Ill., and I had never flown before, but I loved it when the plane left the ground. It was like a room taking off."

"Later, something went wrong with one of the motors. I don't know why we all didn't get cold feet and run, but we didn't. I don't think any of us ever got nervous about flying. We sort of took the difficulties for granted."

There was a lot to take for granted. Mass air transportation was still something new in those days. (Citizens jammed into midwestern airports to watch the day's only arrival and departure.) Pressurized cabins were still a thing of the future for the old trimotor planes which still had canvas exteriors. Passengers (the trimotor held ten) ate box lunches off pillows and had to be reminded not to stick their arms out the window lest they kill a passing sparrow.

"It was prehistoric," said Mrs. Iden. "We put cotton in our ears and chewed gum to cope with the air pressure and noise, but there was nothing to do about the weather. It was hot in the summer and cold in winter."

"Our average altitude was between one and three thousand feet. You couldn't fly over bad weather the way they can now. If it was real bad, all you could do was sit down in a cow pasture or someplace."

The first stewardesses made $10 a month, plus $6 a day for expenses. "There was very lit-

Lemon Glaze, see below
In a medium mixing bowl cream the butter and ½ cup of the sugar; gradually stir in the 1 cup flour. Firmly pat the mixture over the bottom of a rectangular greased baking pan (11 by 7 by 1½ inches). Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven about 20 minutes—do not brown. In a small mixing bowl beat egg until it is thickened and lemon color; gradually beat in the remaining ½ cup sugar and the vanilla. Stir together the 1 tablespoon flour, baking powder and salt; beat into egg mixture; fold in walnuts and coconut. As soon as bottom layer is baked, spread this mixture over it. Return to 325-degree oven until toast color—about 25 minutes. Cool; with a small metal spatula loosen edges; turn out on cutting board; turn right side up; cover top with Lemon Glaze; let set. With a sharp heavy knife, cut into small squares. Store well in a tightly covered tin box for a day or two.

Lemon Glaze: Beat together 1 tablespoon soft butter, 1¼ cups sifted confectioners' sugar, ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind with 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

VFW AUXILIARY NAMES DELEGATES FOR CONVENTION

The Ladies Auxiliary to the V.F.W. Post 1379 met at the Post Home May 20. The meeting was called to order by president Adeline Warmoth. Minutes were read by secretary Teresa Hazelwood.

Donations were voted to the Multiple Sclerosis and the Recording for the Blind funds. Final reports were given by the following chairmen: Rehabilitation, community service, national home, cancer, Americanism, keep America beautiful and blood donor.

Betty Jane Butler was given her obligation and accepted into the Auxiliary. Delegates were elected to the Department convention, to be held in Springfield June 19, 20 and 21: Agnes McDewitt, Teresa Hazelwood, Cecilia Proffitt, Marjorie Hull and Peggy Ann Wright. The treasurer's report was read by Marjorie Hull. Rachel Massey's name was drawn for the attendance prize. She was not present. Door prizes went to Estella Smith and Marjorie Hull.

The meeting closed, after which a social hour was spent with the Post members. Refreshments of fried chicken, bread and butter, pickles and potato chips were served. The next meeting will be held on June 10.

"The romance in the job," Mrs. Iden said. "We weren't picked for beauty. We were chosen for our manner and a certain amount of intelligence. They called us 'fly girls,' and we got a lot of publicity but we rarely had time for dates."

Harriet Fry was a stewardess for a year and a half before she decided to return to nursing.

"It was a long, hard job," she said. (United's first stewardess flew Boeing trimotors on a 13-stop trip from San Francisco to Chicago at an average speed of 125 miles an hour.)

"You got very tired. You could take it just so long and you'd see a friend in a nice, white nurse's uniform and you said to yourself, 'This is for me.' Being a stewardess was too rugged."

LIONESS CLUB BREAKFAST MEET

The Lioness club held its annual May Breakfast meeting at Hamilton's recently. The tables were decorated with centerpieces made by Mrs. Lucille Walters.

Opal Waggener presided in the absence of the president. The group, at a previous meeting, made favors consisting of candy fruit and homemade cookies for distribution to residents of a local nursing home. The report on the activity was accepted.

Past officers were honored and presented with gifts. Attendance awards for 100 per cent were presented to Mary Bailey, Grace Furry, Lucille Eberhart, Charlene Strubbe and Opal Waggener.

The next meeting will be held at Hamilton's on May 28 at 6:30 p.m.

CLOTHES CARE TODAY By RUTH E. HOWARD

Creativeness cannot be mechanized. True, motifs are taken wherever they present themselves, and geometrical ones are by no means of minor importance. But in our days designers are expected to rely on their own vivid imaginations and creative powers. Even the patterns of inexpensive shirtings, plain as they may be at the first glance, are by no means easy to design, though today most of them show mere combinations of stripes—broad ones and narrow ones—and checks. Even patterns of such a kind require taste and talent. It is a plain fact that patterns of qualified designers please more than others. New forms, invisible to the naked eye, are being discovered by means of the microscope to enrich the stock of patterns, just as attempts are being made to find forms for original designs by photo-mounting. But never can such forms be forced forthwith. They are the mere raw material that, by analyzing, stylizing, simplifying, or by adding new ideas, the artist will form into a pattern. We have a definite pattern in cleaning your garments. Cleaning is done with the utmost care here at HOWARD'S, 121 S. EAST ST., PHONE 245-2215. Free pick-up and delivery is one of our many courtesies to you.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By BILL BUCHANAN

Flowers and wreaths deck our cemeteries on Memorial Day as we honor our servicemen who gave their lives for their country. It is a day of memories that churn the depth of our sorrows and sadness.

On Memorial Day we look back with tenderness—and tears. The men we honor would be the first to tell us to look ahead—even as we look back. They would be the first to tell us the past is gone, the future lies ahead. They would be the first to tell us to concern ourselves with the future—while remembering the past. They would be the first to tell us that though they were denied a tomorrow, we should face our tomorrows with confidence and hope, without forgetting the circumstances and conditions that caused a no tomorrow for them. They would be the first to tell us to serve our country and each other—with honor—not for honor... And, they would be the first to tell us there is honor in serving a cause that is "right"—no honor in serving a cause of "might". We should be especially mindful of the distinction on Memorial Day.

There is a generally accepted theory that tipping began in 18th century London where pub keepers set up a bowl inscribed with the words "To Insure Promptness" to help boost sales and profits. The word "tip" comes from the first letters of the three words. The practice of dispensing gratuities to everyone from the shoeshine boy to the maitre d'hotels is an accepted way of life virtually everywhere. There are a few countries, such as Iceland and Tahiti where Americans are not confronted by a sea of out-stretched palms whenever they turn around. Tipping is officially frowned upon in the Soviet Union and other Communist states. It is no longer regarded as a voluntary gesture of appreciation for special services. It is practically mandatory today.

TAYLOR AWAITS STARTING ROLE

There is no denying the fact that major league baseball players have a vocation that most people would jump at a chance to obtain. But some of the aspects of major league baseball life would be frowned upon in most circles.

Consider the case of St. Louis Cardinal pitcher Chuck Taylor, who might well be excused for kicking up a fuss with the way he has been handled. In brief, Taylor has had little or nothing to say about what is best for him and his career may be shortened by his handling by the Cardinals.

TAYLOR, WHO turned 29 April 18, has spent no less than ten years kicking around professional baseball after signing out of Bell Buckle, Tenn., in 1961. The southern-talking Taylor was traded, along with outfielder Jim Beauchamp, to Houston for outfielder Carl Warwick on Feb. 17, 1964. He laetr returned to the Cardinal fold in 1965 to complete the deal in which the Astros traded hurler Hal Woodeshick to the Cardinals in exchange for pitchers Ron Taylor and Mike Cuellar.

Taylor toiled seven years in the minors as a relief man, but was moved to a starting rotation at Tulsa in 1968, turning in a sparkling 18-7 mark with a 2.35 earned run average. Taylor was 5-1 with a 2.06 ERA at Tulsa last year before moving up to the parent club.

TAYLOR WAS called up to the Redbirds last May 26 when Dave Giusti went on the disabled list. With the Cardinals Taylor made 13 starts and finished the season with a 7-5 mark and a 2.55 ERA.

Apparently established as a starter this year, Taylor was immediately moved back to the bullpen, serving mainly as the long relief man for the Cardinals.

Taylor discussed his plight before a recent game in St. Louis.

"I want to be a starter, of course," started Taylor, "but I'm not going to cause any problems. I am happy with the way I have been used, although it causes some problems.

"WHEN YOU are in a regular starting rotation, you get into a routine and your arm becomes adjusted to that routine. For instance, I only run a little the day after I pitch, throw about 15 minutes the second day and run just a little the third day.

"Now, I never know what I will be doing and that can be tricky. I may be pitching two or three days in a row, or I may not get into a game for a week. It is hard to know when you should throw before a game. I may have to warm up two or three times a game and then come into a tight spot. I can't have a sore arm or be wild. I just have to play it by ear."

TAYLOR COMMENTED that when he started working out of the bullpen with irregular work this year, he developed a soreness in his pitching shoulder because he was throwing more than he used to.

The 6-2, 190-pounder also admitted that relief work cost him a few years in the majors. "Other than those with trick pitches like (Ted) Abernathy or (Hoyt) Wilhelm, relief pitchers have a much shorter career than starters. That is because of the irregular work or overwork.

"Of course, I have to be concerned with this possibility, but I feel I may be back to being a starter before long and to get that chance I have to do a good job out of the bullpen. So that is all that I am really concerned with now, doing my job out of the bullpen and getting the chance to start again."

HERE 'N' THERE: NAIA baseball statistics through last week showed Illinois College freshman Rich Orr leading the nation in home runs per game. At that statistical gathering point, Orr, from Perry, had eight roundtrippers in 17 games, an average of .47 per game. The next best average was .43 by Terry Alexa of Wisconsin State. In addition to the best home run pace, Orr was tied for fifth in the nation in the runs batted in average department. Orr had 24 RBIs in 17 games for an average of 1.41 per outing. Tops in the country was Bob Billings of Appalachian North Carolina, 1.65. . . . THE JACKSONVILLE YMCA swimming team is in need of a swimming coach for the next season, starting approximately in September. Qualified swimmers interested in applying for the position should contact Dick Slagle, head of the 'Y' swim committee. . . . THE CUBS' Billy Williams says St. Louis has replaced Milwaukee as his team's biggest and hottest rival as far as the fans are concerned. "We used to take a lot of fans to Milwaukee when we played there, and there was a big rivalry," Williams told this writer recently. "Now, we always seem to bring a lot of fans to St. Louis, and the rivalry has grown considerably hotter." The congenial Williams also commented that the behavior of the fans in Chicago has improved since the opening-day farce, and that the screen put in front of the bleacher fans to keep the debris off the field has helped considerably. . . . WINCHESTER HIGH school's ace hurdler Cliff Cox is headed for Southern Illinois University next year, according to Winchester track coach Art Newton. Cox probably missed a spot in the state meet when a pulled muscle slowed him down in the District meet. Cox had the best area time of the season in the 180-yard low hurdles, :20.0. . . . A SPECIAL weekend of racing in Jacksonville is on tap for local and area fans this Friday and Saturday. Jacksonville Speedway promoter Lance McNelly has a regular program of a 50-lap semi-late model feature and a 30-lap hobo feature as well as several heat races lined up for Friday. Saturday night's 'After the '500' program will be the midjets. In the two weeks the Speedway has been in operation this year, the results have been encouraging. Good-sized crowds have been on hand both weeks, and the improved 1/4-mile banked dirt track and several more local drivers have added tremendously to the appeal. Also, the programs have been moving along at a much smoother pace, another selling point. . . . THE JACKSONVILLE High school Boosters Club Crimson Sports Picnic will be held Monday, June 1, at 6:30 at the Morgan County Fairgrounds in the 4-H building. The wrestling, baseball, golf, tennis and track teams will be honored. Tickets are available at the principal's office or from Boosters Club members. . . . SOUTHERN ILLINOIS University's baseball team closed out its regular season Saturday with a 29-6 mark, giving former JHS and MacMurray coach Rich Jones quite a start in the big-time coaching field. No announcement has been made yet concerning the possibility of a third straight trip to the NCAA finals by SIU.

Rozelle Explains Grid Loop Pacts

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle explained his sports' player-option contract while testifying in the Curt Flood suit in Federal Court Monday. He said some pro football clubs would have failed if the merged leagues had not agreed on a common draft in 1966.

Rozelle, a polished, neatly-tailored witness who had been subpoenaed by Flood's lawyer, Arthur Goldberg, former Supreme Court Justice, was complemented by Judge Irving Ben Cooper when he finished his testimony.

"Have you had any legal training, Mr. Rozelle?" asked Judge Cooper. When Rozelle said he had none, the judge remarked on the manner in which he had handled himself.

Judge Cooper adjourned the trial after the morning session until 10 a.m. EDT Tuesday when Flood's lawyers are expected to complete the presentation of their $3 million antitrust suit against baseball.

Rozelle explained the National Football League rule by which a player who does not sign his contract, but elects to play out his option without a new formal contract, becomes a free agent on May 1 of the following year. However, the NFL club losing a player must receive compensation from the club signing the player. If they can not agree on a settlement, commissioner Rozelle does it for them.

Rozelle said he had been forced to step in three or four times to dictate a settlement when the clubs failed to agree.

Jay Topkis, who asked most of the questions for Flood's side, queried Rozelle as to whether the existence of the right to play out a player's option had been helpful to pro football.

"Football has been able to live with its rules," said Rozelle.

"Profitably?" asked Topkis.

"On occasions," said Rozelle.

Flood is contending baseball's reserve clause, which binds a player to one club until he is traded or released, results in a player being treated like a piece of property and is in violation of antitrust laws.

The former St. Louis Cardinal star center fielder, who refused to report when traded to Philadelphia last fall was in the courtroom, listening carefully to the testimony of Rozelle, the only witness of the day.

Rozelle said approximately 10 players played out their option in 1969. Asked for figures on previous years he said it was "less than 25."

Questioned about the June 1966 merger of the American Football League and National Football League which resulted in a common draft of all college players, Rozelle said:

"If we had not had it (common draft) several clubs in both leagues would have failed."

New Track Mark Is Set Saturday

A new track record and several accents highlighted Saturday evening's race program at the Jacksonville Speedway. Jacksonville's Jim Patrick established a new track record during qualifications with a lap of :14.51, but later tangled with Bob Stanton in the feature with both autos suffering considerable damage. Stanton, from East Alton, was shaken up and taken to a local hospital but later released.

Jacksonville driver Dick Trout also saw his late model put out of action when he went over the bank. Two other Jacksonville drivers, Ronnie Lane and Roy Kunzeman were also hampered by accidents.

Litchfield's Jim Werner captured the hobo feature and Louie Jansen of Godfrey added the late model feature. Russ Noel of Bethalto captured the fast time heat.

Owner-Player Pact Appears Certain

NEW YORK (AP) — The new three-year contract between baseball players and club-owners, which appears certain to be adopted, will give the players economic gains of $800,000 in 1970 and close to $4 million over a three-year period.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, revealed the gains Monday at a news conference when he discussed details of the plan.

Almost all of the 24 player representatives were contacted by Miller over the weekend. A copy of the new proposals will be sent to the players in a day or two and a final vote is expected within a week. Presumably the owners also will ratify the pact at the same time. Miller and the owners' Player Relations Committee are recommending acceptance.

When the players rejected the owners' May 1 proposal by an overwhelming vote, 505-89, there were three major points of disagreement: (1) length of season, (2) playoff compensation and (3) termination pay.

The owners and players already had agreed on increases in minimum pay from $10,000 to $12,000 in 1970, $12,750 in 1971 and $13,500 in 1972. They also had agreed on a fundamental change in the procedure in grievance cases in which Commissioner Bowie Kuhn no longer would be the final authority in all cases, but only in those concerning the "integrity of the game." Other cases would go to arbitration.

Miller said the owners refused to yield on the 162-game schedule, citing long term radio and television contracts as factors.

On the playoff pay, the owners had offered to increase the players' share from 50 per cent to 60 per cent. Under the new agreement all expense amounting to $212,000 in 1969 will come out of the owners' share, not off the top. Then the players will get 60 per cent.

Figuring the player pool on the basis of last year's attendance and receipts, a World Series winner, based on 34 shares, would wind up with $20,970 as compared to $18,338 for each New York Met last year. Similar increases would be made in the pay of the second, third and fourth place teams.

Under the old termination pay agreement, a player got no salary at all if cut during spring training and 30 days pay if cut during the season. Under the proposed settlement, a player will get 30 days pay if cut during the training season and 60 days if cut during the regular season. In 1972, players cut on or after May 15 will get their entire contract pay.

Miller, who worked on the new contract in over 35 sessions with the owners' representatives since Oct. 1, estimated the economic gains for the players this year would be $800,000 and $4 million over the three years.

Staunton Ousts Pittsfield, 1-0

SPRINGFIELD — Undefeated Dennis Smiley made a first-inning run scored on an infield out stand up as Staunton nipped Pittsfield and previously - unbeaten Tom McCartney 1-0 in the Springfield Sectional at Lanphier Park Monday afternoon.

Smiley, now 11-0 on the year with ten shutouts, fanned 11 and walked one and was especially tough in the clutch as Pittsfield wasted three trips and stranded eight runners, at least one in each inning.

Tony C. And Yaz Guide Red Sox Past Senators 5-3

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Conigliaro smashed two solo homers, Carl Yastrzemski hit one and Garry Moses drove in two runs with a pair of doubles Monday as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Washington Senators 5-3.

Moses' first double after a walk to Rico Petrocelli and a single by Luis Alvarado put the Red Sox in front 1-0 in the second inning, but the Senators took a 2-1 lead in the fourth on a walk, a double by Ed Stroud and a single by Tim Cullen.

Conigliaro led off the Boston fourth with his ninth homer to tie the score, and later in the inning Alvarado's single and another double by Moses put the Red Sox on top again 3-2.

Washington tied it in the fifth when Frank Howard walked with two out, went to second on Rick Reichardt's single and scored on a besehit by Aurelio Rodriguez. But with two out in the Boston half of the inning, Yastrzemski snapped the tie by belting his 11th homer of the year just inside the right field foul pole.

Conigliaro then hit his second homer leading off the eighth. Washington 000 210 000-3 11 0 Boston 010 210 01x-5 9 0 Bosman, Humphreys (6), Shellenback (7), Pina (8) and Casanova; Lee, Stange (7) and Moses. W-Lee (2-2). L-Bosman (4-4). HRs-Boston, A. Conigliaro 2 (10), Yastrzemski (11).

Everyone Can Learn To Swim

Everybody can learn to swim. No matter whether they are young or old, boy or girl, man or woman, they can have the fun of making progress.

Because there are thousands of backyard home pools and interest is growing tremendously in water-action sports like fishing and boating, it is extremely important that everyone learns the art of swimming.

The first and most basic safe swimming tip is to learn to swim well, and the Journal-Courier and the YMCA are co-operating in giving everyone this opportunity through the second Annual Journal-Courier-YMCA Free Learn-to-Swim Campaign scheduled at the YMCA during the week of June 8 through June 12.

Twelve separate classes are being offered for adults and youths starting with the third grade. Each class will meet daily during this week and be instructed in water adjustment, swimming skills, and water safety.

The program is open only to non-YMCA members. Registration can be made simply by completing the coupon printed below and taking it to the YMCA.

Class Times offered:

9:00-9:30 a.m. Adults
9:30-10:00 a.m. Grade 3, 4, 5 & 6
10:00-10:30 Grade 3, 4, 5, 6

10:30-11:00 a.m. Grade 3, 4, 5, 6
11:00-11:30 a.m. Grade 3, 4, 5, 6
11:30-12:00 a.m. Grade 3, 4, 5, 6
1:00-1:30 p.m. Grade 3, 4, 5, 6
1:30-2:00 p.m. Grade 3, 4, 5, 6

Success Has Not Spoiled Banner-Crazy Met Fans

NEW YORK (AP) — The Linen manufacturers of America can rest easy. Success has not spoiled the New York Mets' fans.

Expected to become blasé in the wake of their team's miracle run to the world championship last year, New York fans are converting just as many bedsheets into signs now as they did when the Mets were baseball's most lovable losers.

They are a bit more sophisticated perhaps—they don't consider a leadoff walk a rally anymore, at least not right away—but they are still carrying on a love affair with their team.

Banners still wave all over Shea Stadium and the enthusiasm which greeted the Mets almost from the beginning of their adventuresome nine years in the National League hasn't diminished one bit.

About the only thing that has changed has been the Mets' role. They are no longer the underdogs. They are the champs and as such they no longer evoke the sympathy they once did when every game seemed to be a test to see how much torture their fans could endure.

"I feel the same way about them now as I did last year," said Gabriel Elkin, 7, of Wadsworth, N.Y. "Winning the championship hasn't changed anything."

Down behind third base, commercial artist Karl Ehrhardt of Glen Oaks, N.Y., still flashes his professionally lettered and terribly appropriate signs.

Early in the season, Ron Swoboda made a tumbling catch in right field reminiscent of the spectacular grab he turned in the fourth game of last year's World Series against Baltimore. The catch brought down the house while Ehrhardt held up a sign that said simply, "Routine."

The fans remain fickle, though, reserving the right to get on their team at any time. Swoboda struck out three straight times in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader against the Cubs and when he came to bat for the first time in the nightcap, he heard plenty of boos. A swing and miss increased the volume. On the next pitch, Swoboda doubled and he was Shea's No. 1 hero again—at least for that moment.

Blues Trade Plante

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Blues, unable to protect three goaltenders in the upcoming National Hockey League expansion draft, announced Monday they have traded 4-year-old goalie Jacques Plante to the Toronto Maple Leafs for "future considerations."

"We felt Plante was entitled to go with an established club rather than with one of the new teams," Sidney Salomon III, Blues' vice president, said.

"Age was definitely a factor. Plante has been great for St. Louis and great for hockey, but we have to move ahead. I'm sure we'll be criticized for trading such a great player, but we were left with no choice."

Blues coach-general manager Scotty Bowman, who Salomon said engineered the trade, said he foresaw few problems in dealing with the Maple Leafs.

"We'll sit down and work it out after the draft," Bowman said. "It could be a player, it could be a draft choice. We're just going to have to decide what we need and what Toronto has a surplus of."

Bowman said the Maple Leafs offered center Murray Oliver in exchange for Plante but were declined. "The last thing we need right now is another center," he said. Oliver was later sold to the Minnesota North Stars.

Plante, flamboyant and a crowd favorite in his two seasons with the Blues, had been acquired by the club from the New York Rangers in June, 1968 following three years in retirement.

Jim Taylor Winchester Grid Coach

WINCHESTER — Jim Taylor, a varsity football assistant the past four years, has been appointed head football coach at Winchester High School, according to an announcement Monday evening.

Taylor spent three years coaching baseball, basketball and track at Danvers Junior High School before serving the last four years as head baseball and assistant varsity football coach at Winchester High. His baseball teams ran up a 45-20 record.

Taylor replaces Larry Exton, who recently resigned to take the head football job at Pontiac High School.

Taylor received his bachelors degree from Cornell, Iowa in 1960 and his masters from Eastern Illinois University in 1963. He attended high school at Crete Monee in Crete, Ill.

Peoria Central Bags 100th Dual Tennis Victory

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Peoria Central High School won its 100th consecutive dual tennis meet Monday, defeating Bergan High 9-0.

Central's unbroken string of victories began April 28, 1967. The national record for consecutive wins is 107 games by Coral Gables (Fla.) High School. Central won't have a chance this year to tie or beat the national record since it has only three games remaining this season.

Aaron, Wilhelm To Be Honored By Braves Fans

ATLANTA (AP) — Hank Aaron, baseball's ninth player to clean 3,000 lifetime hits, and Hoyt Wilhelm, the game's only player to pitch in 1,000 games, will be honored in special pregame ceremonies Tuesday night when the Atlanta Braves open an 11-game home stand against the Houston Astros.

Aaron reached his milestone at Cincinnati on May 17 when he drilled an infield single through the middle of Wayne Simpson in the first inning of the second game of a doubleheader.

Wilhelm made his 1,000th appearance against St. Louis on May 10 in the final game of Atlanta's last home stand. The Braves, however, were defeated in both those games, taking some of the glitter away for the two veterans stars.

Both players will receive gifts and other awards from the Braves during the special pregame ceremonies starting at 7:30 p.m.

May Still Enter Slo-Pitch Loop

Entries are still being accepted for YMCA boys Slo-pitch softball leagues. There will be a junior high and a senior high division. Boys can enter as a team if they wish or be placed on a team. All boys must be YMCA members to participate and there is a $2.00 entry fee per boy. Any boy who cannot afford a Y membership will be provided with one.

All games will be played on the YMCA ball field at 1:30 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. The Senior high division will play on Monday and Wednesday with league play beginning on Monday June 8. The Junior high division will play on Tuesday and Thursday with league play beginning on Tuesday June 9.

Registration can be made by contacting Youth Director Jerry Clardy at the YMCA 225-2141. However registrations must be received by Thursday May 28.

Wheelchair Race At Carbondale Test Of Stamina

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — While much of the attention of the nation will be riveted on the Indianapolis 500 race this Memorial Day weekend, motorists in Southern Illinois may catch a glimpse of a different type of race at a very different pace.

Four wheelchair teams will be racing 100 miles from Carbondale to St. Louis at an expected rate of 3 m.p.h.

Sponsored by the Winged Wheels club at Southern Illinois University, the teams will leave Carbondale May 26 and arrive in St. Louis May 31 in time for ceremonies at Busch Memorial Stadium before the Cardinal game.

Purpose of the race is to demonstrate that handicapped persons have enough stamina to handle most any job that industry or business has to offer, said John Tashler, president of Winged Wheels.

He said one team will be composed of nonhandicapped students. "We don't expect that team to finish the race, but if they do we'll be pleasantly surprised," Tashler said.

He explained that persons confined to wheelchairs develop strong shoulder and arm muscles and good stamina. Each team will have three members, each racing an hour and resting two hours. They will race from morning to dusk.

The purpose of Winged Wheels Tashler said, is to break down the physical and psychological barriers between the handicapped and nonhandicapped. The club has nonhandicapped students as well as handicapped — including the blind and the deaf as well as those confined to wheelchairs.

'Y' Softball

Illinois Road Contractors lost a heart-breaker, while Boucher, Inc., blasted Ashland in a pair of games in the YMCA Fast-Pitch Softball League at Nichols Park Monday evening.

IRC's Paul Hanson had a no-hitter and a 1-0 lead over Knights of Columbus going into the bottom of the seventh. Max Greer doubled for the KC's and scored on Jack Sparrow's single to send the game into an extra inning. An error and Greer's single chased in the winning tally. Gail Day held IRC to only two singles in picking up the victory.

Ohio State Will Make Up Games

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's Big Ten Conference baseball leaders will make up a doubleheader Saturday at Michigan State, school officials said Monday.

The Buckeyes, 13-1 to Minnesota's 15-3 in the league, need a split or sweep to wrap up the crown and an NCAA Tournament spot. Two games at Michigan since Michigan is on the tri-mester setup and out of school.

Then NCAA District Four Tournament committee is expected to meet Sunday to determine its field. The event, normally comprised of four teams, may have only Mid-American Conference winner Ohio University and the Big Ten king in the district playoffs June 5-6 at a site to be selected.

Indianapolis, Ind. on May 30 is a two-and-a-half-mile strip of asphalt on the west side of town that ends right where it starts.

Indianapolis is "The Brickyard," the "World's Greatest Race Course," "Indy," or you can just call it "The Speedway" and everybody knows what you're talking about.

Indianapolis is a shrine to American racing. It's steel and mortar and asphalt but it has a soul and the 500-mile race is what makes it live.

Indianapolis is the beginning for some and the end for others. It's a seven-year-old's future and a 70-year-old's past.

Indianapolis is a white shirt and tie in the $40 penthouse seats and denim shorts and tee shirt in the $5 infield.

Indianapolis is sound and silence. A thousand cheers for the winner and an afterthought for the losers.

Indianapolis is tradition found in ranshackle old buildings of Gasoline Alley and modern steel and glass of the Pagoda.

Indianapolis is pretty girls and ugly mechanics. It's powder and grease. It's the smell of perfume and gasoline. It's lovely blue eyes and eyes red from lack of sleep.

Indianapolis is a handful of decals and an autograph scribbled on the back of a program.

Indianapolis is a lost child, a lost car, a lost beer cooler, a lost ticket stub. It's forgotten suntan lotion, forgotten binoculars, and a forgotten wife.

Indianapolis is the expert and the rookie, both in the stands and on the track. The big name and the what's-his-name. It's a man forced to retire and a youngster eager to get going.

Indianapolis is a silver badge that gets you anywhere and a rip in the pants from trying to sneak in that gets you a whipping.

Indianapolis is a parade lap, a victory lap, and 200 laps in between.

Indianapolis is red, blue, yellow, orange, black, white and even once in awhile a green blended together to form a rainbow that travels over 160 mph.

Indianapolis is a burn received while changing plugs and a burn on a bald head from the sun. It's a Band-Aid and a mink coat. It's clean and dirty at the same time.

Indianapolis is a set of watches, a set of wrenches, a set of tires, a set of plugs.

Indianapolis is a traffic jam on 16th Street and a traffic jam in the No. 1 turn. It's a boiling radiator form going only 5 MPH and a blown engine from going 150. It's cussing the cop at 30th and Kessler Boulevard, and cussing the flagman for showing the blue and yellow move-over flag.

Indianapolis is sunglasses and goggles. A helmet and a hat, long Nomex underwear and a bikini.

Indianapolis races the blood, quickens the heartbeat, raises the hair on the back of the neck, forces a smile, brings forth a tear and does it all in the short span of a Memorial Day afternoon.

Indianapolis is one of the joys of being alive.

Wheeling It

Only One '500'

By BOB COCHNAR

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (NEA) — The Indianapolis 500 is considerably more than just another big auto race and anybody who attempts to separate the actual racing from the ancillary hoopla and carefully cultivated tradition just does not understand.

The Memorial Day race for years has been torn apart, analyzed, apotheosized, qualified and conjured with by writers and few of them have ever been able to approach it with the proper spirit. Like a Fellini movie, the 500 unfolds, slowly and persistently. It does not need explaining.

Jean Shepherd, an Indiana boy who came to New York for polishing, recalls (Shepherd is forever recalling) the 500 in the current Car & Driver. And he points out, among other things, that "no one who really knows the class ever calls it 'The Indy.'"

"That phrase itself denotes profound ignorance of the tradition — THE 500 is all you have to say. There IS no other 500."

Shepherd, who has previously celebrated such events as the junior prom, the summer vacation, Army food and sandlot baseball, states that the 500, "unlike European races is genuinely Masculine. Even the movie star who hands out the traditional victory kiss always looks a little embarrassed."

"The 500 is as remote from the Grand Prix de Monaco as a beer bust at Gus' Tavern on a Friday night is from Sunday afternoon brunch at George Plimpton's. Plimpton will never quite understand it, and the vague sense of being intruders at a secret rite always plagues the Eastern writers as they try to 'capture the elusive essence of the 500,' as one so delicately put it recently."

Well, there is no elusive essence. The thing slaps you in the face, surrounds you with sound, nauseates you with the grim combination of sauerkraut, burning rubber and engine oil, and lets you know, with the subtlety of an open hearth furnace, that you are there.

Most sportswriters, if pressed, will admit that one of the "great moments in sports" occurs when Speedway owner Tony Hulman croaks, "Gentlemen, start your engines."

Shepherd recalls: "A great roar spread out over the infield as car after car revved over. Blue-gray smoke and the smell of burning exotic fuel made me almost pass out with excitement."

"The pace car started to roll and the great parade roared by on the classical Pace Lap. They moved out of sight. Balloons floated high up over the stands. Guys stood on hoods, fenders, rickety platforms, everything, to see the start, and when it came it was more than even I had imagined it to be."

"The earth trembled. Tires screamed . . . the race was on. And for ever and ever no one would be able to convince me that there is any more exciting a happening, and that's what it is, than the 500."

Scrape away the hokum and corn, slice through the kitsch and, what do you know, those 33 drivers are actually competing out there.

The corners may look the same, but they are not. It takes consummate skill to wrap a car around the turns at upwards of 170 m.p.h.

But let it all come together. The racing, the balloons, the 400,000 screaming spectators, the noise, the smells—everything. It's the only way.

Stewart Claims Formula 2 Race

CRYSTAL PALACE, England (AP) — World champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland, driving a Brabham, won the international Formula 2 auto race Monday, a six-year reign by Austrian Jochen Rindt at this London circuit.

Fuel trouble cost Rindt his first Formula 2 defeat of the season after he had led the race for 22 of the 50 laps.

But Rindt still was the first man to set a 100 miles an hour lap at this circuit.

Swiss driver Clay Regazzoni was second in a Tecno, and young Brazilian Emerson Fittipaldi was third in a Lotus.

After setting a lap record of 100.08 miles per hour in his heat earlier in the afternoon, Rindt improved this to 100.89 MPH before dropping out of the final with a loss of fuel pressure.

Stewart, in his first Formula 2 victory of the season, equaled this seven times after the Austrian had retired, but he was unable to do any better.

The race, a non-championship event, attracted a crowd of more than 20,000 on a sunny English bank holiday.

Stewart covered the 69.5 miles in 41 minutes 56.2 seconds at an average speed of 99.44 MPH. Regazzoni finished in 42:08.8 and Fittipaldi in 42:33.6.

NEW ISU GOLF COACH

BLOOMINGTON — Illinois State University athletic director Milt Weisbecker has announced that one of his top athletes, Joe Plack, will replace him as head golf coach next year.

Plack, a senior from Peoria (Central), was captain of ISU's 1970 golf squad. He also captained the Redbird swimming team last winter, and is a three-year letterman in both sports.

Weisbecker cited the pressures of time for what he termed "a reluctant decision" to retire from coaching to concentrate on his duties as director of ISU's rapidly expanding athletic program.

He has been head golf coach at Illinois State for seven years. For the past four years, he has also been athletic director.

Local People At State Conference On Youth

Five Jacksonville professional persons attended the May 21, 22 Illinois White House Conference on Children and Youth in Springfield last week, which noted an overflow crowd of 700 persons including 150 high school and college students.

From Jacksonville there were Elizabeth Minor, Morgan County Health Department; Hazel Bothwell, Department of Public Instruction affiliate; Keith Dirks, psychologist at Jacksonville State hospital; Dr. Kenneth Mangan, superintendent at Illinois School for Deaf; and Delilah Newell, special education teacher at MacMurray College.

Miss Bothwell, Dr. Mangan, Miss Minor and Mr. Dirks were technical consultants; Miss Newell was a member of the Illinois Committee.

Conference activities got under way Thursday afternoon when Stephen B. Hess, national chairman of the 1970 White House Conference on Children and Youth, gave the keynote address. Hess, 37, a former assistant on urban affairs to President Nixon, graduated with honors from John Hopkins University at 20. He has authored or co-authored five books.

Other conference speakers included Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, who addressed the Thursday banquet, speaking on "Communication, Commitment and Action."

Attending the conference were child experts, youth, technical consultants, parents, homemakers, legislators and representatives of the various segments of society, including business, religion, labor, education and health.

The 1970 White House Conference on Children and Youth is the seventh such conference since Theodore Roosevelt called together 200 people in 1909 to consider ways to preserve and strengthen home life for children. Among the speakers at that first conference were Jane Addams and Booker T. Washington. In Illinois, the 1960 conference brought about creation of the Department of Children and Family Services, extension of child welfare services, revision of the Juvenile Court Act and the passage of legislation for reporting child abuse. The Illinois Council of Youth was created, as was the Commission on Children, an agency charged with the follow-up work on conference recommendations plus serving as a spokesman and advocate for children's services.

Interment was in the East cemetery.

Aaron Ends Win Drought At Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Tommy Aaron refused to gamble on the 18th green Sunday but, after some 30 minutes as a nervous spectator, still cashed in the big chips in the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic and broke a 10-year victory drought on the PGA tour.

"I wanted to shoot at the green but I was too far out... about 245 yards I guess," said Aaron, a drawing Georgian who earlier had spotted the field two strokes with a self-imposed penalty on No. 14.

"So I elected to lay up," he added with a smile, "and now I'm glad I did."

Aaron concluded his final round with a 69 and a 72-hole score of 275, 13-under-par over the 7,052-yard Atlanta Country Club course. He then watched as his challengers wilted on the closing holes under a hot Georgia sun.

Tom Weiskopf, who carried a one shot lead into the final round, offered the last and greatest threat, but fell into a deadlock for third place with a 277 when he drove into the water on No. 18, then hit into a trap and finally two-putted for a double bogey seven.

Dan Sikes matched Aaron's closing 69 and took second place at 276. Joining Weiskopf at 277 were Arnold Palmer, South African Gary Player and Bert Yancey, the 1969 Atlanta champion.

Aaron, a native of Gainesville, Ga., 50 miles north of here, built a three stroke lead with birdies on Nos. 11 and 12. But then came the 14th, where he took a two-stroke penalty and left the way open to a half-dozen challengers.

Aaron picked up his ball in the 14th fairway, looked up and saw a white line five to 10 feet away.

"It was quite a shock, to say the least," said Aaron, "I knew I had just donated two shots to the field."

Winter rules were in effect throughout the tournament and the barren fairways contained lined areas where players were allowed to lift, clean and place the ball. But Aaron was outside the areas.

"After I did that, hell, I was afraid to bend over and pick it up anywhere," said Aaron.

"That was the lowest four rounds I ever shot as a pro," said Aaron. "It's a great thrill to win, especially at home, although it's probably the hardest place to win."

ROODHOUSE RITES FOR EVA SITTON

ROODHOUSE—Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Sitton were held Friday afternoon at the Wolfe Memorial Home. Rev. Charles Rigdon officiated, assisted by Rev. Raymond Smith. Organ music was provided by Mrs. W. J. Rees, Jr.

Palbearers were grandsons: Larry Cook, Raymond Sitton, Robert Sitton, Brad Bell, Jerry Gardiner, Harold Sitton, Fred Blackburn, Paul Sitton. Burial was in the Fernwood cemetery.

BLUFFS DRIVER ESCAPES INJURY

A Bluffs man escaped serious injury in a one-car accident about 11 p.m. Saturday on the Naples road, one mile west of Route 100.

Allan L. Vortman, 25, of Bluffs was the driver of a car, eastbound on the Naples road, when it went out of control and struck an embankment.

The car sustained heavy front-end damage estimated by state police at about $750.

Vortman was ticketed for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

BROKEN GLASS AT DRUG STORE

Police were notified Sunday afternoon that the front door glass at Mace's Drug Store on the south side of the public square had been broken out.

Officers first checked for a possible break-in and learned no entry had been made.

Later, police received an explanation of the broken glass from David Potter of route one, Ashland.

Potter said he was driving around the square when the right rear hubcap came off his car, rolled across the sidewalk and broke out the door glass.

CARS DAMAGED ON WEST COLLEGE

City police investigated an accident at 8:10 a.m. Monday at the intersection of W. College and Webster. A car driven by Martha Jane Gray, 137 City Place, stopped to make a turn and was struck from the rear by a second auto driven by Jan P. Sheerin, 1904 Plum. Both cars left under their own power and no injuries resulted.

Charles Lutwidge Dodgson wrote "Alice in Wonderland." Dodgson used the pen name of Lewis Carroll.

Busted Clutch Costs Pearson World 600

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — David Pearson slumped his defeated body across the nearest table. The stock car king was beaten physically by Sunday's boiling heat and mentally by personal misfortune.

"God, I thought I had it won," he murmured. "Had it in my hands."

An expressway driver can fork out $200 for a busted clutch at his neighborhood garage. The same problem had just cost Pearson a cool $36,950.

Pearson led by two miles when he wheeled his Ford Torino into the pits for a final World 600 stop. A routine service job and he was home free in a two-car fight with Ford teammate Donnie Allison.

On went the tires, in went the gas and Pearson got set to sail back to the 1½-mile Charlotte Motor Speedway with 55 miles to go. Nothing. Crew members pushed, but nothing. A broken clutch killed the Spartanburg, S.C., driver's hopes and he limped frustrated toward the garage.

Allison, meanwhile, had been relieved by LeeRoy Yarborough after his Ford floorboard overheated. Yarborough's own Mercury had fizzled because of a bad clutch, but he sailed to a $39,600 triumph in the Allison machine.

Pearson was presented a slim $2,650 payday, a mere pauper's wage next to the fat check Allison stuffed in his racing suit.

Cale Yarborough's Mercury suffered a long pit stop early in the 400-lap grind with spark plug problems, but the stocky South Carolinian plugged away and picked up second money of $17,300.

Benny Parsons of Detroit was a surprise third-place finisher in another Ford and earned $11,595. Tiny Lund wheeled the highest finisher among the favored Dodge Daytonas, taking fourth place and a payoff of $7,565.

Former stock car golden boy Fred Lorenzen was en route to a triumphant return to the sport after a three-year retirement, but a blown engine in his Dodge killed his chances after 380 miles.

Lorenzen, 35, has won four races at Charlotte including a pair of World 600s. His car was sponsored by the speedway itself and helped lure 70,000 fans to the sport's longest race.

Allison is part of a Hueytown, Ala., brother team. His brother, Bobby, went out early with a blown engine in his Dodge.

Donnie had finished second to Buddy Baker and LeeRoy in his last two shots at the 600-miler. He also was a winner here in the National 500 last October.

Yarborough was dressed in civilian clothes and headed to a helicopter when Allison's call came for a relief driver. LeeRoy was en route to the airport to fly his own plane to Indianapolis. Both he and Allison will drive in the Memorial Day 500 next Saturday.

"I chucked into a bathroom and changed back into my driving suit," said Yarborough, who had not seen victory lane this season. "When I got behind the wheel of Donnie's Ford I knew it was a hotseat."

Allison's floorboard sizzled when insulation burned away, leaving only a thin sheet of metal between the driver and red-hot exhaust pipes.

"I was cooked," said Allison. "I had to get out of the car and

Ruby Takes Look At 'The Big One'

Editors Note: Lloyd Ruby, veteran Indianapolis race driver who expects to compete for the 11th time May 30, will provide a five-part series by-lined feature starting Monday and continuing through Friday. He will discuss his problems in qualifying, his future plans and will evaluate the drivers. The first of the series follows.)

(1st of a Series)
By LLOYD RUBY
Written for
The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Well, here we are for the 11th time at the old Brickyard. In spite of some things that shouldn't happen to anyone, we're in the 500 field—starting 25th in a field of 33 cars.

But if my luck gets as good as it's been bad, I'm sure nobody'll be able to race with me race day.

To start with, we ran 167 miles an hour the first time we went on the race track, May 4. But from then until last Saturday, everything seemed to go backwards instead of forwards.

I blew an engine on Mother's Day. I mean it scattered everywhere. Gene White, my car owner, called his wife and told her old Ruby had just blown her Mother's Day present.

We kept having engine problems for the next week. Dave Laycock, my chief mechanic, and the whole crew went four days and nights without any sleep. By the first day of qualifying, we figured they had found the problem.

I went out that Saturday and put together three practice laps at better than 171 miles an hour. We felt real good about our chances for the pole position.

Of course, our luck in the draw for a qualifying position had to be typical of the whole week—we drew the very last one, 50th position.

We got in line to qualify and that's right where we stayed. We were four cars back when the rain drenched our hopes for that day.

Sunday morning of that first qualifying weekend, the weather changed completely. It had been real cool Saturday, but Sunday I could have fried an egg on the straightaway. I fired a piston instead. That forced us to go to our backup car. I ran laps above 169, so we again decided to qualify and I got back in line.

At Indy, you get three warm-up laps prior to a qualifying run. If you're going to make an attempt, you have to hold up your hand on the third lap. I held up my hand the third time by the clock.

But there was that Ruby luck again. I had a lap of better than 168 but the officials didn't see my hand. It made me mad as hell. Everybody else on pit road saw my hand.

They sent me right back out and I ran three laps above 168. Had I been credited with that

JOHN CASTLEBERRY RITES IN GREENE

WHITE HALL — Funeral services for John Castleberry were held Sunday afternoon at the Dawdy — Wolfe Funeral Home. Rev. Vale Warkington officiated with Mrs. Carol Shive at the organ.

Palbearers were Claude Blacketter, George Retherford, Roy Jackson, Howard Barber, Dick Printy, and Thomas Printy. Interment was in the White Hall cemetery.

Nicholls State Claims Mideast Regional Crown

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Neal Ayme's home run and three runs batted in paced Nicholls State of Louisiana past Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville 4-1 Sunday in the championship game of the NCAA Mideast Regional College Baseball Tournament.

Three Nicholls pitchers limited Southern Illinois to three hits. Southern Illinois scored its only run in the 9th on two walks, a single and a fielders choice.

Ayme drove in Nicholls' first run in the 4th on a single and then accounted for two more on a home run in the 8th. Ayme was named the tournament's outstanding player as he accumulated 10 hits in 22 trips to the plate, including 3 for 4 Sunday.

Rodney Cotten, who pitched a one-hitter for five innings was credited with the victory although needing help from Ken Alfred and Charles Fasolo. Dan Klutho absorbed the loss for Southern Illinois.

Announce Honor Graduates In Chandlerville

CHANDLERVILLE — Karen Kay Arthallony and Anna Kay Herrmann have been announced as the valedictorian and salutatorian of the 1970 graduating class of Chandlerville high school.

Karen Kay Arthallony is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Arthallony. She enrolled in 18 courses during high school and has a 5.0 average.

She has attended Girl's State, was a National Honor Society member, received the Betty Crocker Award, and was the 1969 Carnival Queen.

A member of the Chandlerville Christian church, she enjoys playing the organ. She received an Illinois State Scholarship and plans to attend Illinois College, where she will major in education.

Anna Kay Herrmann, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Herrmann, attained a 4.91 average and completed 19 courses. She has been active in band, National Honor Society, F.H.A., and Library club. Anna Kay belongs to Salem Lutheran church and Walther League.

She was awarded an Illinois State Scholarship and will attend Illinois State University, where she will be an English major.

School Activities
Members of the eighth grade class enjoyed visiting the zoo and the Police Relief Circus in St. Louis Friday.

One hundred persons attended the eighth annual scholarship banquet of the Chandlerville high school held May 15, Friday, at the Blackhawk.

The guests honored were students whose grade average was 4.5 or above for the 1969-70 year. Parents and teachers also attended.

Guests were freshmen, Rodney Atterberry, Steve Stone; sophomores, Cheryl Beard, Diane Fielden, Deborah Fielden.

Marla Kern, Michelle Webster and Alan Wildt; juniors, Darlene Atterberry, Karen Kay Carlock, and Marsha Gabehart; seniors, Darrell Atterberry, Karen Arthallony, Dennis Boeker, Anna Kay Herrmann, Kay Houston, and Anita Leinberger.

MT. STERLING GI HOME FROM VIET

MT. STERLING—Sp.4 James and Mrs. Hill left Mt. Sterling Monday, arriving in Colorado Thursday. Jim returned home from a year's tour of duty in Vietnam and has been in Mt. Sterling since that time.

He is now assigned to Ft. Carson, Colorado, and has still a year and a half of service. They will reside in Colorado Springs, Colo. Mrs. Hill is the former Merry Lynn Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Adams, and Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Hill, all of Mt. Sterling.

Leon Pressmore has returned to his home here after being in Culbertson hospital at Rushville. Victor Parker has also returned home here after being a patient in Schmitt hospital at Beardstown.

Boyle's Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

My, aren't we getting literate! Nearly three new books are published every hour now in the United States. Last year some 22,000 new titles appeared, and between 7,000 and 8,000 revised editions of older books were printed. Somebody must have taught Johnny how to read after all.

It isn't always easy for either you or your doctor to tell that you've had a heart attack. One study of myocardial infarctions estimated that 20 per cent go undiagnosed at the time of attack. Also revealed: sudden death from coronary occurs five times as frequently in smokers as in nonsmokers.

Ever wonder why a full moon doesn't warm you up like the sun does? This is because even then the moon reflects only seven per cent of the sunlight that falls upon it.

Medical researchers pay a price for their inquiries in the fight against disease. A worldwide study of 5,000 laboratories found that since 1949 at least 12 of their workers had died and 3,225 suffered infectious maladies acquired as a direct result of their investigations of dangerous bacteria and viruses.

Quotable notables: "Nothing is more comical than the look on the face of a person at the upper end of a dog leash, pretending not to know what is going on at the lower."—E.B. White.

Despite the fact that many motorists seem unable to distinguish between traffic lights, most people are extraordinarily sensitive to color. Scientists at the National Bureau of Standards have found that under ideal conditions the human eye can distinguish between 10 million color shades and tints.

Incidentally, if you don't like to read, better not become a scientist or engineer. They now have to spend an average of 10 hours a week reading in order to escape "professional obsolescence."

Many industrial firms have installed health departments to keep their employees fit—not for philanthropic reasons but because it is a good company investment. It costs from $3,000 to $20,000 to replace a lost worker—a worker who might be kept on the job by a proper disease-screening program.

Steve Wade realizes that his newspaper route is his complete responsibility. It is his business. But, at the same time, it is a wonderful feeling to know that he has a partner upon whom he can rely for advice and assistance any time he wants it. That partner is his mother.

From Mrs. Wade's viewpoint, the education which Steve gets on his route is just as important, in its way, as that which he gets in school. One supplements the other. Together, they give Steve a head start in life which will benefit him greatly over the years ahead. She knows that in no other way could he learn so many practical things so quickly—and build up a bank account of his own at the same time.

Alderman Dale Brown announced six promotions in the police department during Monday night's regular city council session which resulted from examinations and interviews by the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners.

The six men promoted represented a total of 62 years' service in the police department.

Promotions of sergeants to the rank of lieutenant included three veterans on the department: Robert L. Brune, 16 years; Lynn Chapman, 13 years; and John Irlam, 10 years.

Promotion of patrolmen to the rank of sergeant included three more veterans: Everett Williams, 10 years; Gerald Scott, 8 years; and Rene Lemme, five years.

The promotions become effective Saturday, May 30. The entire department will be reorganized during the next few months to take advantage of personnel assigned to traffic and patrol, investigative and service units.

Linemen Dispute
Mayor Dan F. Lahey Monday night told a well-packed gallery that he would have no comments for the news media until he had an opportunity to discuss his trip to Chicago, last Thursday, with all aldermen and Attorney T. C. Rammekamp Tuesday morning.

Lahey and Rammekamp attended a meeting in Chicago with union officials. Since his return late Thursday, the mayor said he would have no comment until he had an opportunity to discuss the problem with all aldermen. No special meeting had been called by the mayor. Later in the council meeting, Lahey announced that he would hold a closed meeting immediately following the council session but would not comment further until after he talked with his special attorney.

Union Seeks Action
Assistant Business Agent John Browning, Local 57, IBEW, asked the mayor about several grievances which he said should have been presented to the city council a week earlier.

The mayor said council action had been taken on one or two of the grievances. He said they had been discussed in committee sessions.

No grievances have been presented for action during open session of the council since the dispute began April 22.

Browning urged a prompt meeting of all aldermen to hear a report of the meeting in Chicago.

Quinn's Motion 'Dies'
Alderman Charles Quinn questioned the mayor concerning why he had not called a special meeting to hear what happened in Chicago. Quinn said he objected to both the method and also termination of the nine former linemen.

Quinn questioned whether the city also needs "a high-salaried man at the head of the department." He cited reports of the population going down and losing customers in the electric department.

Quinn said his investigation of the so-called dispute showed that "both sides made mistakes

Train Delays Firemen On New Berlin Run

NEW BERLIN — A train on the tracks at New Berlin delayed the New Berlin fire department from reaching the Charles Kratochvil home here early Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Kratochvil were awakened by the smell of smoke at 1:30 a.m. Sunday and summoned help when they found fire in the utility room just off their kitchen. Mrs. Kratochvil led the couple's eight children to safety while her husband summoned firemen.

The volunteer firemen were delayed an estimated 20 minutes because of the train blocking the road to the home, according to fire chief Ray Smith. The entire home suffered smoke and water damage, but the family elected to remain in residence at the home. Temporary electrical power has been supplied to the home.

GRAFFITI by Leary

how can people miss you if you don't go away?

...why can't we get it resolved," he asked. He said the city might be in jeopardy with the bonding houses, customers and others. He moved to disperse with the managing superintendent (Robert Jameson) in the interest of economy. Quinn's motion died for lack of a second.

Fireman's Letter
A letter from the International Association of Firefighters Local 637 and signed by Norman Little, a member of the fire department, stated their disapproval of the dismissal of nine city linemen. The letter urged the council to give consideration to re-hiring the nine.

At the close of the meeting, Alderman Cornell J. Kane said he would like a copy of the letter sent to the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners. Kane described the firemen's position as "protected."

He also indicated that the firemen, also city employees, were trying to inject themselves "into something in which they are not concerned."

The council quickly moved into executive session following Monday's council session. Special Attorney T. C. Rammekamp who the mayor said he would meet Tuesday also attended a portion of the executive session of the council.

Chicken Sign
The local Kentucky Colonel received a favorable vote on first reading of the zoning ordinance variance for West Morton between S. West and Church Streets.

The passage of the ordinance would open the way for owners of property in that block to place signs, with suitable agreements on price paid to the city, in the same position as businesses may legally do so to the east and west of the block in question.

Two negative votes were cast on the proposal by Aldermen Brown and Schulz.

Second and final reading of the ordinance will be heard next week. The local Colonel must still reach an agreement with the city for lease of the property upon which he hopes to place his sign.

The council approved a lease for a 40-foot strip of property behind Ace Hardware plus an easement along the Brook for entrance and exit of trucks serving the retail establishment. The council approved a lease agreement for 20-years at an annual payment of $300.

Stop Signs
Stop signs were approved on first reading for three locations, two of which are in anticipation of the completion of the Westgate extension.

Westgate will stop at West Lafayette and Westfall will stop at Westgate. The third location calls for a stop sign on North at Lafayette. This location already has three-way stop and the fourth sign will be installed since the Green Acres subdivision has been opened.

Alderman Dale Brown suggested a four-way stop for Mound and Westgate.

The council transferred $10,000 in motor vehicle parking funds to the general fund.

Alderman Carl Bourn, in the absence of Municipal Services Chairman Jimmie Fernandez, received council approval for purchase of a pickup truck with power steering, automatic transmission and eight cylinders. The lone negative vote came from Alderman Brown who said he didn't feel the street department needed power steering and automatic transmission. The bids will be received June 1 up to 5 p.m. in the city clerk's office.

REAR-END CRASH ON WEST COLLEGE

There were no injuries in a rear-end collision about 2:30 p.m. Sunday near the intersection of West College avenue and South Webster.

Paul R. Nunes, 356 South East street, told city police that he was westbound on West College and slowed down to make a right turn onto Webster. His car was struck from behind by a car driven by Susan Powers of Montpelier, Ohio.

The Powers woman said that she misjudged the distance between her car and the slowing Nunes auto. Her car was towed from the scene.

REITHER on Beardstown
By Virgil Reither

BEARDSTOWN — The Illinois river is expected to be down to 14 feet by June 3rd, it was forecast Monday by the Weather Department, because a slow decline in the flood stage was indicated.

Tom Phelps, weather observer, said Monday's stage was down to 23 feet—the high had been forecast for 24 feet by May 23 but the prediction was not attained.

Flooded acres of farm ground, the partially flooded village of Browning, and the farm homesteads flooded in the Sangamon Valley area will begin to feel relief in a few days unless there is further heavy rainfall.

Meanwhile roads in the valley remained closed, and roadways through the local Schmoldt Memorial Park remained closed.

'Exhaust' Jury Panel For Trial In Circuit Court

Circuit Judge William Chamberlain recessed circuit court at 5:15 p.m. Monday because the court had exhausted the supply of prospective jurors.

Judge Chamberlain convened court Monday morning to hear the case of Dennis P. McHatten, administrator of the estate of Lois Ann McHatten vs. William E. Caldwell, driver of a truck involved in a fatal accident Feb. 20, 1968.

The case also includes at least three other cases: Schmidgall Transfer Co. vs. Tina Barber and Tina Barber vs. William E. Caldwell and Schmidgall Transfer Co.

Six attorneys are involved in the jury trial which is currently in progress.

Dennis McHatten is seeking up to $300,000 surrounding the death of his wife, Lois, in a three-vehicle accident on East Morton Road at Brooklyn Avenue.

Eight jurors were selected during Monday's session: Evelyn Burke, Charles M. Davis, Mabel A. Doolin, Helen D. Tipps, Doris Deweese and Helen Dial.

Sheriff Dean Colwell and his deputies were busy Monday evening serving subpoenas on prospective jurors to report to the court room Tuesday morning.

Attorneys R. G. Heckenkamp and Robert Bradney represent McHatten; Ben Miller of Springfield represents Tina Barber; William L. Fay and John Bellatti represent the truck driver.

After selection of the last four members of the jury, testimony is expected to get underway immediately.

You May Phone Social Security, Medicare Claims

The Springfield social security office recently started a new kind of service, referred to as "Teleclaims," it was announced by H. J. Vasconcelles, district manager. People may apply for social security payments or for Medicare protection by telephone.

To complete an application the new way, you merely call the social security office and state that you wish to apply for retirement or survivor benefits.

A claims representative will complete an application and mail it to you for review and signature. He will also explain what proofs are needed, and these can be mailed to the office with the signed application.

After a person becomes eligible for benefits, he may also use the telephone to report that his address has changed, that he has returned to work or has stopped working or possibly to get help in filling in a Medicare form.

The new procedure is speeding up payments on claims. It is also proving a convenience for many persons who can telephone but cannot visit the district office. When the phone-in method is used, Vasconcelles asked that local residents allow sufficient time for a complete interview. In some cases a personal visit to the office may still be necessary. Anyone who prefers to visit the district office at 528 S. Fifth street, Springfield, may certainly do so. The office hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday.

REV. DALE ROBB ON COMMITTEE AT CONVENTION

Rev. Dale Robb of 823 West State street, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has been elected a member of the standing committee on ecumenical mission and relations for the 182nd United Presbyterian General Assembly in session in Chicago.

The General Assembly, governing body of the 3.2 million member denomination, is meeting in the Conrad Hilton hotel through May 27. Mr. Robb is one of the 45 members of the committee which reviews the report and minutes of the commission on ecumenical missions and relations before they are presented to the General Assembly.

BATTERY STOLEN

The theft of a car battery was reported to city police Sunday afternoon.

Eatha Swearingen, 311 North Prairie, reported that the battery was stolen from her car sometime between 10:40 p.m. Saturday and 3:30 p.m. Sunday while it was parked in the Passavant hospital parking lot.

Dr. Tudor, who is director of Regional and Urban Development Studies at Southern Illinois University in Edwardsville, has been active in work of the Heart association on the county, regional and state levels for several years. He was instrumental in establishing the Jackson County Heart Unit and chaired the committee which enabled creation of the Southern Illinois Cardiac Work Evaluation Unit.

Also featured at the program will be vocal entertainment by Miss Lynn Alexander of Springfield, who is Miss Lincolnland for 1970.

Dr. Tudor will address members of the Morgan county association on the topic "The Heart Association: Projections

John Sullivan Of New Berlin Dies Monday

NEW BERLIN — John T. Sullivan, 73, a retired farmer, died at 11:55 a.m. Monday at St. John's hospital in Springfield, where he had been admitted Saturday.

Born January 12, 1897, at New Berlin, he was the son of Dennis and Ellen Shields Sullivan. He married Mary Grace Leahy February 15, 1922, at Auburn, Ill.

A member of St. Mary's church, he was presently serving as Grand Knight of Father Fanning's Council 4372 Knights of Columbus.

He was a former School Board member of the New Berlin High School.

Surviving are his wife; three sons, John T. and William D., both of New Berlin, and the Rev. Father Kevin B., of Sacred Heart church, Granite City, Ill.; six daughters, Mrs. Marjorie Nafziger of Danvers, Ill., Mrs. Dorothy Danacher of Germany, Mrs. Eleanor Killian of Palatine, Ill., Mrs. Dolores Killian of Barrington, Ill., Mrs. Marcella Greazel and Mrs. Catherine Hewett, both of St. Louis; one sister, Cecelia Haugh of New Berlin; and thirty-four grandchildren.

Friends may call from 2-9 p.m. Wednesday at the McCullough Funeral Home, where rosary will be recited at 8 p.m.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at St. Mary's church, with Rev. Kevin B. Sullivan officiating. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery in New Berlin.

Two Vehicles Suffer Damage

Two vehicles received extensive damage in an accident shortly before 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the 600 block of East State.

City police said an eastbound pickup truck, driven by Frank Colwell of Alexander, ran into the rear of a parked car, owned by Kenneth McGinnis of 681 East State.

Colwell explained he looked away from the road while reaching for an article on the seat beside him. He looked back to find he had pulled into the parking lane and did not have time to avoid the collision.

Both vehicles had to be towed away.

CYCLE RIDERS SUSTAIN INJURY

Two motorcycle riders were hospitalized early Sunday following an accident on the Old State Road at the intersection of Route 123.

State police said a cycle driven by Roger D. Wardell, 23, of Springfield was slowing for the intersection when he lost control as he applied the brakes. Another motorcycle following Wardell swerved to avoid hitting him and also ran out of control.

The second bike was driven by Wayne S. Page, 23, of Ashland.

Both riders were taken to Passavant hospital in good condition suffering head lacerations. Their condition was not considered serious.

WILL COULTAS IS YOUTH DELEGATE AT ASSEMBLY

Will Coultas of this city is the youth advisory delegate for the Springfield Presbytery at the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian church being held through May 27 in Chicago. Rev. Dale Robb of the First Presbyterian church is also attending the assembly.

for 1971." He will also preside at the installation of officers for the local association.

In addition to his work in behalf of the Heart association, Dr. Tudor has served on the National Advisory Council on Extension and Continuing Education, as an advisor to the national Civil Rights Commission, and as a board member of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

State posts have included membership on the Illinois Public Aid Commission, the Governor's Committee on Unemployment, the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, and the Illinois Welfare association.

4 Cars Damaged Sunday Evening In Local Area

Four cars were damaged and one driver ticketed as the result of two accidents investigated Sunday night by state police.

The ticket stemmed from a mishap about 5:15 p.m. on Illinois 78, five miles north of Jacksonville. An auto driven by Joyce Lehman of 750 East Chambers stalled in the southbound lane after running through some water. Miss Lehman saw a car approaching from behind and pumped her brakes to alert that driver of her stopped car.

Driver of the approaching car, Joseph Weis of Manchester, did slow in time. However, a third southbound car driven by 49-year-old Charles Piper of Brighton was unable to stop before striking the Weis auto.

Piper was ticketed for driving too fast for conditions.

At seven o'clock, two cars collided on the west side of Lake Jacksonville on a county road, five miles southeast of Jacksonville. State police said an eastbound car, driven by Thomas Norris of 920 West State, and a southbound auto, driven by Debra Prewitt of 817 West Chambers, met on a curve. Both claimed they were on their side of the road, although the point of impact indicated the accident occurred in the middle of the roadway. The Norris auto received an estimated $1,000 damage and was towed away.
